LOCALS SHOW UNEXPECTED STRENGTH IN BLANKING DONIPHAN 38-0 HERE FRIDAY

Coach Cunningham's crew demonstrated for the first time this season, the real caliber of its football possibilities Friday afternoon by sending the rangy football invaders from the hill country, Doniphan in particular, home with the zero in a 38 to 0 score. Cox proved to be the mainstay of the Bulldog machine as far as ground gaining from straight football was concerned. Captain Billy Fox, however, added enough yards thru and around the line to merit mention. Young's heaves to Ansell and Whidden paved the way for additional markers, and heady football by the entire crew was enough to take the starch out of the invaders.

The Bulldogs proved themselves superior as ground gainers in scrimmage. They intercepted passes seemingly at will, and broke up offensive plays called for by the Doniphan quarterback. The work of Bailey, Bulldog tackle, was especially outstanding.

Wright, Richmond, Farmer, Boyett, Bennett and Paul divided honors on the visiting team as ball carriers. The passing combination, Wright or Richmond to Farmer and Gore worked smoothly at times, and accounted for the one deep trip into Bulldog territory. The threat fell flat, however, while the Bulldogs continued to roll up additional points.

The first quarter ended scoreless with honors about evenly divided. The locals were superior in having gained more yards from scrimmage, while their guests had succeeded in rolling up a larger yardage from the aerial route.

The first marker came early in the second quarter after Cox and Capt. Billy had taken time about breaking through the line for first downs. Fox had placed the ball on the Doniphan 5-yard line, and Cox carried it over the chalk line on a long end run for the touchdown.

Young passed to Fitzgerald across the line for extra point and the parade of points started. Sikeston 7, Doniphan 0.

Sikeston kicked off to Wright on the Doniphan 28-yard line. Wright returned 10 yards. Richmond lost 3 yards. Boyett passed to Wright back of the line. Wright fumbled and recovered for a 1-yard gain. Sikeston time out. The ball was in play on the Doniphan 35-yard line. Wright starting from a pass formation lost one yard. Davis blocked Boyett's kick. Harrison Tanner recovered for Sikeston and the Bulldogs took the ball on the Doniphan 21-yard line.

Cox crashed the line for 9 yards. Fox added four, making it first down on the 8-yard line. Cox took the ball to the inch line and Fox had the honor of driving through center for the second touchdown. Young's pass to Ansell for extra point was knocked down and the Bulldogs chalked up a score of 13 to 0. Paul replaced Bennett as signal barker for Doniphan.

Sikeston kicked off after touchdown to Wright on the Doniphan 20-yard line. Wright returned 19 yards placing the ball in play on the 39-yard line. Sikeston end offside, and the play was called back. Sikeston kicked to Baumgardner, who was down on the Doniphan 46-yard line.

Wright gained seven yards on three line smashes. On the fourth down with only one to go, Paul failed to gain and the Bulldogs took the ball in midfield. Cox shook off tacklers and twisted his way through the entire Doniphan team for a sensation-54-yard run and a touchdown, making the score Sikeston 19, Doniphan 0. Bennett, Hayden and Keller replaced Tanner, Fitzgerald and Nicholson in the Sikeston lineup.

The Bulldogs faked a place-kick and sent Fox through the line for extra point. Score, Sikeston 20, Doniphan 0.

Farmer returned the ball to the Doniphan 33-yard line after kickoff. Wright's pass was long. Boyett kicked to Young on the Sikeston 39-yard line. The ball was returned 26 yards to the Doniphan 40-yard marker.

Bennett gained 3 yards at left end. Cox went through for 15 yards and first down on the Doniphan 21-yard line. Fox added 5 yards. Whidden was replaced by Bob Nicholson at end. Bennett passed 16 yards over the goal line to Ansell for touchdown. Young's try for point was no good and the score was 26-0 as the half ended.

Both teams went on the field, with their original lineups. Sikeston kicked off to Farmer on the 15-yard line. Farmer returned to midfield evading the entire Bulldog team. Fox made the tackle.

Boyett was stopped for no gain. Young intercepted Wright's pass intended for Farmer and dashed to the Sikeston 49-yard line. Fox lost 2 yards at center. Cox made up the loss and added one yard around left end. Young kicked to the Doniphan 30-yard line. Bennett made no gain at right guard. Fox intercepted a pass from Wright and carried the ball to the visitors' 29-yard line.

The Bulldogs were penalized 20 yards for roughing, placing the ball on the Doniphan 48-yard line. Cox made 13 yards on a long left end run. Young added 5 around at right end. Cox made first down on the Doniphan 25-yard line. Fitzgerald followed perfect interference to the Doniphan 15-yard line.

The ball was about 4 inches short of being first and ten. Fox went through center to the 9-yard line. Cox went across for another touchdown. Young passed to Whidden who was stopped at the line making the score 32-0.

Sikeston kicked off to Farmer, who returned from his 20-yard line to the Doniphan 40-yard marker. Keller went in for Buddy Thrower in the Sikeston line-up.

Boyett made no gain at right tackle. Cox intercepted a pass from Richmonds pass and ran 50 yards for a touchdown adding the final points to the Sikeston total. Young's pass to Fitzgerald was incomplete.

The visitors staged a partial comeback in the final quarter and held the locals scoreless. Cunningham substituted freely placing his reserves in the fray. "Speedy" Malone tried out as ball lugger late in the final frame and dusted his heels in the face of Doniphan tacklers repeatedly.

Penalties in the fourth quarter assessed in most cases against Ansell for "piling" probably cost the locals two or three touchdowns. Herb Moore, referee, was unusually liberal in his interpretation of that particular rule, and each interpretation was good for a 15-yard setback. The locals demonstrated more punch and drive in the Doniphan contest than in any other previous game this season or last, and defensively played "out of their heads". Every combination seemed to clink perfectly, and the only lamentable item on the day's activities was the small crowd of Sikeston spectators. Editor Sheppard of the Doniphan Prospect News, remarked, "Why not tell the folks here that they have a ball game here this afternoon?", which is another way of saying that not more than fifty Sikestonians, school children excepted attended the game.

The locals will find an entirely different set of conditions next Saturday in their last home game of the season with Cairo High School billed here. The game here Friday, however, was unusually clean, and injuries to the locals were nil—a condition which may work out favorably in preparation for the Cairo contest.

MISSIONARY GROUP TO MEET

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet Tuesday night at 7 o'clock with Miss Ellen Helen Smith. All members are urged to attend.

Prime Long Island ducks, dressed and drawn at Piggly Wiggly Store.

The Woman's Club will meet with Mrs. Frank Sikes Tuesday afternoon. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, Jr., and little daughter drove to Wolf Island Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Barney Wagner will be hostess at a Lotto party at the Marshall Hotel Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Altar Society of the Catholic church. Everyone who enjoys Lotto is cordially invited. The game starts at 2 o'clock.

DISTRICT AUXILIARY TO PRESENT PROGRAM

Mrs. Lyle Malone, president of the Sikeston American Legion Auxiliary was informed Monday morning by Miss Gertrude Bean of Illmo, chairman of the Armistice Day Program Committee November 11, that members of the Auxiliary in the Fourteenth District would present a program in Caruthersville between 11 and 12 o'clock Tuesday. Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary will convene in a huge patriotic demonstration in Caruthersville in commemoration of the signing of the Armistice which marked the end of hostilities in the late World War.

The program will of necessity be more or less impromptu and will consist of short addresses, vocal and instrumental numbers and mass singing.

Members of the Sikeston Drum and Bugle Corps paraded the city last Friday night, and initiated their new uniforms. Members of the group here are certain that no dressier outfits are owned by any other corps in the district. The Drum and Bugle Corps of this city and from Cape Girardeau will be present at Caruthersville.

WILD DUCKS GROW TAME; AS RESULT HUNTER ARE WILD

Norfolk, Va., November 7.—What are millionaire sportsmen to do when they spend a lot of money to raise wild ducks to shoot at and the ducks won't fly for them? That is the problem at the expensive hunting preserves in Back Bay, Va., and Currituck Sound, N. C., owned by W. E. Corey, steel magnate, and Joseph G. Knapp, director of many large corporations, including the American Lithographic Co.

Knapp thought wild ducks could be raised like tame ducks. He employed expert duck raisers, and set apart a tract of land on which the wild fowl were to have full sway. More than 1500 ducks were raised the first year. In 18 months the flock increased to 3800. It was decided to set them free so Knapp and his friends could shoot at them. But the ducks wouldn't fly. They decided to hang around and get their three regular meals a day.

Knapp and his experts were dumbfounded. They let the ducks go hungry for a day or two. The ducks alarmed the entire settlement by their loud quacks of protest. Knapp could not stand the noise. He surrendered and ordered them fed as usual.

There the matter stands. Nobody wants to shoot a duck that will almost eat out of one's hand or swim out to a boat loaded with men armed with shotguns and greet them with a friendly "quack".

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM IN SCARLET FEVER CASES

According to Dr. G. W. Presnell, City Health Physician, there is no cause for alarm regarding the prevalence of five cases of scarlet fever in the city. At the present time, said Dr. Presnell, each case is quarantined, no new cases have been reported within the last 24 hours, and those stricken with the disease show improvement.

The City Health Physician cautioned parents to watch children closely, and report to their doctor any case of sore throat and fever.

Within 24 to 36 hours after the development of fever, the patient breaks out with a rash usually on the chest and face. A white ring is also noticed about the mouth. If parents will co-operate in reporting all cases and keeping known cases confined, there will be no cause for closing schools, churches, the theatre, or taking the ordinary stringent procedure incident of an epidemic, added Dr. Presnell.

Mrs. Tillman Anderson of Commerce visited relatives in Sikeston, Sunday.

The Russell-Bradley Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Lyle Malone, Friday evening. Mrs. Malone and Miss Lillian Putnam will be hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Roth, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barrett, Mrs. L. O. Rodes, Misses Audrey and Lydia Chaney went nutting Sunday. They report not many nuts found.

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church will have doughnuts for sale Thursday, November 13. Place your order early. Call Mrs. T. F. Baker, 471, or Mrs. B. F. Carroll, 379.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Cecelia Priester, who departed this life one year ago, November 7. Sadly missed by daughter and grandchildren.

DON'T GET FOOLED

"Find the Twins—Win $3500", "How Far Did Lindy Fly?" "Solve This Puzzle and Win the Buick", "Find the Lucky Combination"—these are some of the inviting head lines of puzzle contest advertisements. The rest of the copy, in the finer print, is devoted to glowing descriptions of the wonder and value of the prizes and the ease of solving the puzzle. "Anyone Who Can Solve Puzzles May Win", is the repeated promise.

If you send in the simple solution, you promptly receive a letter, "Congratulations! Your answer is correct". The same assurance goes to everyone, no matter what the answer is.—"We have credited you with the 9500 points for answering the advertisement. Now get ten subscriptions for our magazine (or sell $5 worth of our toilet preparations) and we will award you 485 more points".

These puzzle schemes are "bait" used to organize an army of amateur salesmen or subscription solicitors. Only a few can possibly win a worthwhile prize. The great majority spend their time, money and ingenuity for nothing, or at most, a meager commission for services rendered.

Many publications have taken a vigorous stand against such advertising. They decline to carry puzzle contest advertising. This constructive action has been taken to protect the public from imposition and to conserve confidence in advertising.

If you see this kind of advertising in any publication, call it to the attention of the Better Business Bureau and get all the facts. There is on cost or obligation. It's hard to get something for nothing".

SIKESTON GREENHOUSE WILL ENLARGE SOON

According to Wm. F. Woehlecke owner and manager of the Sikeston greenhouse, the local plant is to be enlarged soon. Construction of another greenhouse, a modern office and shipping room will be started after Christmas. Mr. Woehlecke recently added a lean-to to take care of late fall and winter flowers.

While the summer drouth was not particularly encouraging to the local horticulturist and florist, he is convinced that the trade area will respond to better facilities for growing flowers, and his plans accordingly are for increasing the capacity of the plant here.

In response to a vigorous beautification campaign sponsored by the Sikeston Lions Club many home owners called Mr. Woehlecke into conference, and a dozen or more home-makers decided to contract the work to this newcomer in the community. The results as rated by the Lions' judging committee were gratifying and in most cases the expert work of Woehlecke was revealed in well-groomed and executed plantings, lawns, shrubs and flowers.

At the present time, the greenhouse is a mass of giant "mums". Huge masses some six to seven inches in diameter ranging in color from snow white to orchid and a brown heather mixture.

HOME TALENT SHOW SET FOR NOV. 20-21

Members of the American Legion Post 114 decided last week to hold their annual home talent minstrel on November 20-21. Active rehearsals for the show started Monday evening, November 10, and will continue every night until "show night". Mrs. Moore Greer will direct.

The cast will include many of the "all stars", who assisted with the Lions Club production last year, and other local talent which has heretofore lain dormant. The producers are convinced that the fun bill is one of the best ever concocted for local consumption.

SIMPLE PRECAUTIONS FOR CARE OF SPRAYER

While use of sprayers which are badly worn and will no longer do an efficient job of spraying is not to be recommended at any time, it is good policy to make spraying equipment give full service. Appreciation of attention necessary for maintenance of the fine working parts of large, power sprayers is much more widespread than formerly. Work of agricultural extension agents, manufacturers, and various information sources has helped to emphasize importance of sprayer care.

At this time of year, attention may well be called to some precautions which should be observed before storing the sprayer. Briefly, these include thorough flushing and draining of all parts, with attention to drain cocks and valves; oiling of moving parts and painting of tank, inside and out; cleaning and storing the hose in a dry place and oiling the rods and nozzles. Old crankcase oil may be left in the pump over winter or simply drawn through.

In other places we notice where political speeches were made in high school auditoriums. Not so in Skeston. Our school board opens the doors for barnstorming plays put on by outsiders, all sorts of practice drills, etc., by outsiders, but when it comes to political subjects that will some day interest every body and girl in the school district, they refuse the use of the building. The building was erected on the understanding and promise that it would be a real community building. The Standard will begin now to attempt to create sentiment to open the doors to debates on political and economic subjects for the future, or try our level best to defeat every member of the school board who opposes the proposition.

There was such a large crowd at the Hog Ford church last Sunday only those who came early could get a back seat.—Commercial Appeal.

One of Bishop Cannon's Methodist preachers back in Richmond, Va., has been convicted by a jury and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years for embezzling funds of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage. The article does not say whether he lost the money in stocks or spent it in stockings.

The Standard editor attended a meeting of country newspaper editors at the Statler Hotel, St. Louis, Friday, where shop talk was the order of the day. Incidentally, these country editors were certain conditions in country towns and country cities were not near so bad as was reported in the big cities.

From St. Louis comes word that a lone bandit held up a printing office and got away with $400. This is to advise prospective bandits that The Standard spends its cash p. d. q. after it reaches the shop.

The Municipal Light Plant at Columbia, Mo., has to its credit $125,000 on deposit in that city. Their rate is to be cut to 7½¢ per KWH for the first step, and each step reduced in proportion.

The Standard office was brightened Saturday morning by the sunny smiles of Miss Hallie Carey, formerly of this city, and her friend, Miss Dorothy Bauerle, both of the Cairo telephone force.

If there be any reflection in the election of November 4 in the agricultural sections of the Central West, it is against the tariff and the Farm Relief Board. The members of the Board, with their idle prattle, scared some farm communities to death, while in others, the farmer could see no relief whatever and knew it was but a lot of political bunk. The voter had his say on election day and spoke in no uncertain terms. If the farmer had the security he could get relief from local banks, and it took security to get it from the Farm Relief Board. To get right down to brass tacks, farmers in our trade territory have been, and are, hard hit, mostly from weather conditions, and will pull through the winter without much assistance, and the future while not the brightest ever, holds a lot for those who have confidence in the Government, their neighbors and themselves.

THOSE REPORT CARDS

What sort of grades were on them? Well, don't worry too much about it. At least, do not abuse the child making I grades. Most pupils practically all students, are making just about what they are capable of. All can't make S grades or even M. About half of us, children and adults alike, are only average, ordinary folks, who are doing the work of the world. Some few of us are superior and some inferior, and it will always be thus.

You are to be congratulated if your child is of the student type and makes S grades, especially if he plans to go ahead where book-learning is required.

But the good, average boy or girl with M grades is O. K., especially if he or she, is taking part in outside activities.

And if a child can make only low grades, then he should be encouraged and helped to get into something that suits him better than academic work. All can be good citizens.

I sometimes wish we didn't give out any grades at all, just recorded credit. After all, it's the learning something and the art of thinking that counts, not grades.

Parents are encouraged to see the teachers about their children, and if habits of regularity, promptness and studiousness are encouraged at home that will help.

Much more time has been spent with the weaker pupils than with the strong. I wonder if it is just. Should not the exceptional child be given some extra attention?

We have more pupils trying to do better than they are doing, than we have those just trying to get by. Most children are conscientious.

Anyway, we remember the sign in the western church, "Please do not shoot the organist, she is doing the best she can".

I wish each parent would visit the school, and call at my office.

THIS WEEK IN MO. HISTORY

Columbia College first opened its doors to students ninety-six years ago this week—on November 10, 1834. This institution has been called the seed from which the University of Missouri grew.

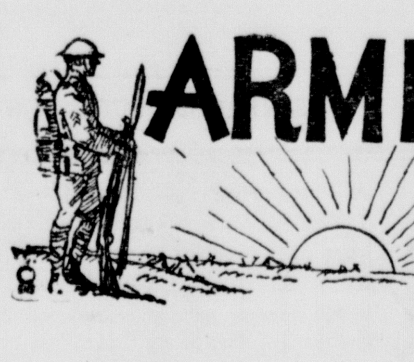

In accordance with published announcements which had appeared in the Missouri Intelligencer during the preceding month, the college was formally started on its brief, though important career, with public ceremony. "At an early hour", the Intelligencer records, "many citizens assembled at the Court House, and were formed into a procession under the command of Capt. D. H. Hickman, who had been previously appointed marshal of the day. They then proceeded to the Presbyterian church, where the ceremony of inauguration took place. It is seldom we have witnessed a more interesting procession. Its brilliancy was especially heightened by the uniform and lovely appearance of the young ladies from the Female Academy, whose presence dispelled the gloom which an inclement day was calculated to inspire, and excited a deeper and more lively interest to the exercises of the day".

It was under such favorable auspices that the forerunner of the University of Missouri came into active existence. But if this may be called the first fruition of the seed which was to produce the State's highest institution of learning, the planting must be traced back to a mass meeting held more than three years earlier, on August 9, 1831, at the court-house, where the citizens met "for the purpose of adopting a plan for the purchasing of a site for a seminary in the town of Columbia, and for the purpose of adopting some measures for having the same improved, by building an academy thereon".

At this meeting, Robert S. Barr was chairman, and Austin A. King later governor of Missouri, secretary. A committee composed of Mr. Barr, Oliver Parker, and James B. Nichols was appointed to draft a plan and select a site for the building. A campaign was started to raise the necessary money.

In the Intelligencer of September 10, 1831, the pecuniary advantages of "the College" to the people of Boone County were presented, with the reminder that it would not be long before the Legislature would be looking for a place to establish "a State college". It was suggested that the central Missouri town which had shown the greatest concern for the cause of education would probably be chosen.

Thus did Columbia and Boone County make an early bid for the State University. How they finally won it over the rivalry of other communities is an oft-recounted story, of which this is the proper beginning. Bids for construction were received

ARMISTICE DAY

A PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR OF THE CITY OF SKESTON

Pledged to a program of usefulness and service to the community, State and Nation, The American Legion today enjoys the full confidence of the American public. Ever since it has been organized the Legion has exerted its best efforts in the behalf of good citizenship and in the building for a greater and better America. The Nation's defenders will always be honored for the glorious service they gave in war, but their desire to also serve in peace must command our deepest respect and admiration.

The public has direct interest in the Legion because of the worthy activities it carries on each year. The Legion has come to be recognized as a great stabilizing influence in American life with some 10,000 posts, embracing a membership of nearly 900,000 veterans of the World War, standing ready to serve their communities in whatever capacity they may. The Legion's community service work is well known. Every year the posts throughout the United States carry on scores of different types of community welfare and civic betterment projects.

The Legion's foremost work is caring for those who were maimed and disabled by their service in the war. Justice does not always flow automatically for the men who suffered war-incurred disabilities and the big task of the Legion has been to see that they receive all the compensation to which they are justly entitled and adequate hospital care and treatment. The Legion has likewise extended a helping hand to another class of war sufferers, the widows and orphan children of those who fought and died for their country.

The people of this city are duly appreciative of the splendid endeavors of The American Legion, and to Legionnaires they extend every encouragement to broaden and further expend their work in the future. Since the achievements of the Legion can be measured only in terms of its membership strength, it is highly desirable that the public should co-operate with the Legion in its attempt to enroll every eligible World War veteran into the ranks of Legion service.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, N. E. Fuchs, Mayor of the City of Skeston, do hereby proclaim the week beginning November 4 and ending on Armistice Day, November 11, as American Legion Week, during which time an intensive drive will be made to enroll 1931 Legion members. I particularly ask that all citizens co-operate with the Legion in its effort to build a better and stronger organization for 1931 by urging eligible veterans to take out Legion membership during this campaign.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Skeston to be affixed. Done in the City of Skeston this 7th day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty.

in March, 1832. The charter was obtained the next year. The home of the institution was erected in the Southwestern "suburbs" of Columbia, on what is now South Sixth Street. It was built of brick, 60x26 feet in size, and two stories in height.

The trustees, Mr. Barr, A. W. Rollins, Richard Gentry, Warren Woodson, Thomas W. Conyers, William P. Cochran, James W. Moss, William Cornelius, Oliver Parker, David S. Lamme, John B. Gordon, David Todd and Sinclair Kirtley, held their first meeting in Captain Samuel Wall's tavern on the first Monday in May, 1833.

A final meeting to raise funds was held in June, 1833, and by the fall of 1834 all was ready for the opening. Thomas Miller, a graduate of Indiana College, who had recently had charge of the preparatory department of Transylvania University, was placed in supervision of the teaching, and the school formally dedicated and started.

The college closed before the University opened, but its building served the first classes of the State institution, whose earliest alumni were graduated from it in 1843. Columbia and Boone County, as the result of foresight and liberal financial inducements, had obtained the "State College" when the question of its location came up, following its establishment by the General Assembly's act of 1839. An eloquent pleader for Columbia was James S. Rollins, who came to be known as the "father of the university".

THE REAL LOW-DOWN

The most terrible piece of amateur acting it has ever been our hard luck to have to sit through was given by the High School pupils last night in that antiquated fire-hazard, called Zupke's Opera House.

The alleged play was written by the town's noisiest matron, Mrs. Ebenzer Forefinger, who is always into everything, and generally for no good purpose. The play shows her at her best, which is uniformly awful.

Irony of fate—our best advertiser's little pug-nosed and scrawny daughter, was the heroine. That fat-headed, pig-eyed, town pest, Eric Busby was the hero and was about as "dashing" (as the program billed him) as a mud turtle basking on a log.

Juliette Teter, knock-knees and all, gawky Billie Sawdy with his adenoids, Gertrude Featherstone, giggling throughout, and bratty little Oliver Tate, shooting spit-balls at the kids in the front rows, completed the so-called speaking parts.

The audience consisted of the families of those present, the janitor, and ye unfortunate editor. The women spent most of the time looking at what the others wore and mostly looked like accidents going somewhere to happen.

The second hand, Model T "Lizzie", introduced as a prop in the second act was the best thing in the show.

THE FICTION HE WROTE

Probably never in its brilliant history has the Zupke Opera House opened its doors to a more distinguished audience than taxed its capacity last night to witness the play given by our school's talented young thespians.

The play itself, entitled "A Gift From Heaven", is the crowning work of our most versatile and charming citizen, Mrs. Ebenzer Forefinger, and compares favorably with Booth Tarkington in his best moments.

Lack of time and space alone keeps us from the fulsome praise the piece, its author, and the gifted young people who took part in it, so justly deserve.

We have no adjectives that can describe the beautiful and petite Alys Niblick, daughter of our distinguished merchant prince and his gracious wife, Hiram and Mrs. Niblick. Eric Busby as hero to this beautiful heroine, was a charming leading man with a dash and stage presence that reminded one of John Drew.

Attractive Juliette Teter, teaming with Billie Sawdy, had the audience entirely with them in their clever comedy parts. Oliver Tate and Gertrude Featherstone contributed greatly towards making "A Gift From Heaven" what it is—a perfectly balanced production, and a most convincing proof that our little city has more than its share of unusual talent.

DISTRICT LEGIONNAIRES TO MEET IN CARUTHERSVILLE

The Pemiscot County Post of the American Legion will be host to the Legionnaires of the Fourteenth Congressional District at Caruthersville on Armistice Day, November 11. They are expecting good representations from each Legion Post in this district and are planning plenty of entertainment for their visitors. Some of the features will be Band Concerts, addresses by prominent Legionnaires, a mammoth parade in which three musical units including the Skeston and Cape Girardeau Drum and Bugle Corps will participate, a football game between the Southeast Missouri Teachers' College of Cape Girardeau and the Caruthersville Junior College, a banquet and a dance in the evening.

This will be the second annual Armistice Day celebration which the Legion Posts of the Fourteenth District have held since their organization two years ago. The celebration last year was held at Cape Girardeau.

WHAT MAKES AN AMATEUR IN THE FLOWER GARDENS?

What is an amateur flower grower and what is a professional? It is almost as difficult to draw the line here as in some of the fields of sport, experience has shown. In his handbook on "Horticultural Exhibitions", just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Furman Lloyd Mulford, specialist in floriculture and landscape gardening, says it is not easy to draw the line with justice.

"An amateur", says Mr. Mulford, "is one who grows plants for the love of it, while the professional is one who grows them for the money he can secure from it. It would seem easy to class any who sold the products of their gardens as professionals, but this would be unjust to many enthusiastic amateurs who spend large sums for new varieties and occasionally sell some of the surplus materials to others and reinvest in new kinds. Many of these are unquestionably amateurs and are doing great good in the communities in which they live, as their acquisitions inspire other plant lovers. It would be eminently unfair to these people and to the cause they represent to class them as professionals. For this reason it seems wise to define an amateur as one who grows his plants for the love of it and whose sales from his garden do not equal his outlay for seeds and plants."

HAWES ANNOUNCES NEW PLAN TO SAVE GAME AND FISH

A plan to conserve the game and fish of this country by encouraging reproduction instead of centering attention on laws to restrict the sportsmen was urged by United States Senator Harry B. Hawes yesterday in a luncheon address to members of the Wild Life Conservation Club, at the Mayfair Hotel.

This plan, which Senator Hawes declared is successfully used in European countries, will be sponsored by the conservation foundation, "More Game Birds in America", of which he is president, Hawes announced. The foundation will seek to have model game laws introduced in a number of States to test the theory.

Senator Hawes explained that the plan will be predicated on the theory that the game belongs to the land and not to the State. Farmers who will restore game birds on their land may realize a profit from a valuable by-product by leasing their land for hunting purposes or by selling outright to hunt on their land at a set price per bird.

Another vital necessity in preserving our game and fish is to divorce our game and fish laws from partisan politics, he declared. He urged that a plan be devised to select game enforcement officers through a non-partisan board of sportsmen.

Pointing out that 8,000,000 persons in the United States obtained hunting licenses and 15,000,000 persons obtained fishing licenses last year, Senator Hawes said that there still is a nation-wide interest in wild life and the outdoors. When a feeling for outdoor life is no longer present in America, this country will begin to slip as a government, he stated.

Darkened nests in the poultry house prevent the birds from acquiring the egg-eating habit. These nests are built out from the wall so the birds enter them from the rear, and have a door in front which is opened for gathering the eggs.

The best time of year to select breeding turkeys is in November or December, before most of them are sold for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets. Good breeders have large frames, a broad back, and deep body with full, well-rounded breast. Other points of importance are a full, bright eye, a broad head, and stout legs set well apart and not too long. Above all, choose birds that are vigorous. In the North, turkeys need covered roosting sheds during the winter months. They can stand considerable cold but should not be exposed to dampness.

WE STICK UP OUR NOSE AT NOTHING

When we were schoolboys the teacher graded our paper 60 or 70 and that's all there was to it. We didn't call her names, appeal to the principal or go home crying to grandma.

But when we 60 or 70 per centers once go into business, hang out our shingle and sign our beflowered names to notes running seven years into the dim future, thenceforth and forever after no human being dare, at the risk of his hide, even utter the suspicion that we are less intellectual than Isaac Newton, less financially competent than J. P. Morgan, possess less selling ability than Chas. M. Schwab, or know less about production than the chief engineer of the General Motors Corporation.

In other words, while we are still learning with open minds, we are reasonably humble and capable of improvement. But once out of school, our brain-expansion is superseded by chest-expansion, and we become, nearly all of us, the motley collection of more or less green business men who make up the yellow classified section in the telephone directory.—Spinal Colylums.

The temperature of the home refrigerator, in the milk compartment, should be kept at or below 45 degrees F if possible. Refrigeration is used to retard the development of bacteria in milk, and above this temperature, bacterial growth is very rapid, causing changes to take place in the milk that may render it unfit for food.

SIX BOTTLES OF KONJOLA ENDED STOMACH MISERY

Ailments Are Banished By Famed Medicine After All Else Tried Had Failed.

MR. GEORGE KOTTE

"I suffered from stomach trouble for a number of years," said Mr. Geo. Kotte, 5762 Theodosia avenue, St. Louis. "No matter what I took to gain relief, gas and bloating followed every meal. I always had a heavy feeling in my stomach and a sensation of fullness. My nerves became all upset and I spent many restless, sleepless nights. My complexion was yellow as the result of liver ailments and I had bilious attacks, headaches and dizzy spells.

"A neighbor had received such wonderful results from Konjola that he encouraged me to give this medicine a trial. After the sixth bottle I felt like a different man. My stomach trouble vanished. My nerves were strong again, and I sleep soundly through the entire night. Headaches and dizzy spells have vanished. Konjola rid me of all my ailments and I willingly recommend this great medicine to everyone."

So it goes; the same splendid story of success wherever Konjola is put to the test. Though Konjola works quickly, it is best to continue with the treatment for six or eight weeks to obtain thorough relief.

Konjola is sold in Skeston at the Derris Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

HERD TURKEYS AS THEY WOULD CATTLE

Turkeys are herded as cattle would be in an open range country on the Parker Rollins farm, seven miles north of Centralia. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins have 557 head of turkeys, all raised on the Rollins farm this year. It is the largest flock of young turkeys ever produced in this section in one year.

Mrs. Rollins started her turkey eggs in incubators, transferring them to hens after two weeks in the machines. The hens completed the job of hatching. Around 600 were hatched and there have been few losses. With the aid of a trained German police dog, this huge flock of turkeys is herded day and night by the Rollins family. They are so tame that a stranger can walk through the flock and pick up individuals at will.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins plan to sell this flock for the Thanksgiving market.—Paris Appeal.

BOOM IN OZARK COPPER INDUSTRY EXPECTED

Eminence, November 7.—A boom in the copper-mining industry in the Ozarks is expected to follow renewal of operations of the Shawnee Copper Mining Company mines on Shawnee Creek, six miles south of Eminence. Plans are being made to develop the copper industry in Shannon County. Work on the foundation for a new concentrating plant has been started.

When planting unhulled sweetclover seed, sow it in late fall, winter, or early spring. Plant the seed late enough in the fall so it cannot germinate before spring. The action of moisture and frost breaks the seed coat and the seed will sprout with the first warm weather in spring. Unhulled seed is cheaper than hulled or scarified seed and may be seeded more liberally.

Homes That Refuse To Run Down

So sensitive to his surroundings is the normal person that he cannot live in a "run-down" house for long without suffering a "run-down" spirit and a "run-down" disposition. Nothing is more depressing than a house that shows signs of former beauty. Strangely, there are furnished which retain every home that has never been reborn of their original attractiveness. The draperies and rugs reveal the secret. Those homes have taken full advantage of The Skeston Cleaning Company's Cleaning and Dyeing services. Well-equipped Cleaners and Dyers don't give homes a chance to run-down.

Those who do not believe in evolution, read this and be convinced. Away back some forty years ago, when we first went to housekeeping, for convenience sake, the Missus and I ate in the kitchen, then as time passed and the eight children came to us, we evolved out of the kitchen into a large room, where all could be seated at one time. Then came the grandchildren and it was necessary to cut off a large section of the side porch for another room for the grandchildren, and this was called the breakfast room, though we have eaten dinner and supper in this room most ever since. Then when the children began to leave us for better or worse, the breakfast room table had the leaves taken out so we could help one another, and lo, and behold, Sunday morning we found a small table set in the kitchen with two plates, and we are right back where we started, except we are more in debt.

This is to inform Elder John B. Huffman and Bro. Geo. W. Anderson that no more space will be allowed for religious arguments, as there is nothing gained, neither convinced, and the public cares nothing for it.

From Sarasota, Fla., comes word, through the United Press, that a species of enormous sea turtle that "cackles" when it lays its eggs has been discovered by Capt. Clarence Roberts, veteran Sarasota pilot. The Captain must have had the second shot of Jamaica rum when he heard that turtle cackle. One drink of it will make a fellow see things.

Election is over, and the Democrats seem to have rather the best of it. Hard times helped, and the same may be said of the reaction against the 18th Amendment in instances where the successful candidates were avowedly wet. As usual, the outcome in New York State was awaited with interest. Gov. Roosevelt was returned to office by a substantial majority. Tammany received an airing, but the country and small town folk were not interested. This is in line with what has occurred in the past, under similar circumstances.

The editor and wife thank the manager and owner of the Sikeston Green House for a bunch of very fine chrysanthemums grown here in the local house. He has a beautiful lot now ready for delivery.

Jim Ham Lewis, wet Illinois aspirant to the senate, had his hopes fulfilled, and the wets claim to have made gains generally. Bad judgment in the matter of prohibition enforcement has irked many who otherwise would not have been interested enough to take sides, and the election served as a safety valve for their pent-up indignation.

Airplane transportation made it possible for the President to cast his ballot. Owing to the secrecy of the polls, it is not possible to state which ticket he voted.

Eighteen hundred men were required to put out election bonfires in New York City. The bonfire is a perfect symbol of the hot air that accompanies most elections.

The Commissioner of Education states that newspapers cater solely to adult minds so far as the publication of news is concerned, and suggests a page in each issue wherein the events which interest grown people be chronicled in a way, and in terms, which will reach the children also, and with the same effectiveness as comic and sporting pages.

According to testimony given in a pending lawsuit, the man who handles the gate receipts is the toughest opponent that a heavyweight champion meets, so far as taking the count is concerned.

To the Readers of The Standard: Well, I am glad the Elder had a laugh because I corrected him. But I expect it was rather a forced laugh as we note he is now not going to build a church for Sikeston Working People, but is going to build a church house for them. Well that sounds better. He can do that if he can get the money. But I didn't think he could build a church for them. The Elder seems to think everybody ought to know what the church means. But many of them do not have the least idea what it is. So by correcting the Elder, I thought maybe together we might be able to give them a little light upon this very important subject.

Men down through the ages have taken this sacred title and applied it to carnal institutions until today people's minds have been led away from the church and as a result away from God. The Elder don't seem to want to deal with this corruption, so I will endeavor to do so in a brief way.

To begin with, we will call your attention to the fact that when a man says a thing is right or wrong, if he speaks as an intelligent person, he must have in mind some standard.

Now there are many standards in us. There's the Baptist church. It has its standard of right or wrong, the Methodists have theirs, the Nazarene has theirs, the Catholics theirs. Then there is the standard of the Nation and every State has its standard. These are all supposed to tell us what is right and what is wrong. Then there is another standard which is the word of God.

It tells us what is right and wrong also. It is the standard of the church which is the body, which Christ is the head of. Now a man can very easily tell whether he has a God given right to wear that sacred christian title by asking himself, what is my standard? Soon after the church was established upon the earth by Christ, Carnal institutions began to spring up all around and they were labeled with this sacred work church, which belongs to the body of Christ only. Such a sacred word should have never been given them, and as a result of this corruption, men have joined these Carnal institutions which has a Carnal standard, by the millions, thinking that they were getting into the real church, which is the body of Christ, which is governed by a sacred standard, which is the New Testament, which is the word of God.

These institutions being Carnal, but have a sacred title. Like begotting like, turns out nothing but a Carnal product and they give him a sacred title too and the poor fellow thinks he will make it through to the glory land. But if someone should ask him if he is a member of the church, which is the body of Christ, which we read about in Bible, his answer would be, I do not know, sir. I have never looked to see, but I am a member of the little church down on the corner and that is good enough for me. But if he had gone to the Sacred Standard, turned to Act 2 and had gotten the correct information, how he might have obtained salvation and if he had obeyed the Holy order, he would have then been added to the church which is not built with brick and mortar, neither governed by a Carnal standard. He would have been added to the church which is so plainly portrayed in the Bible. He would have a God given right to wear that sacred Christian title.

Now the Elder is what I call a big broad fellow. He thinks members from every order will get to heaven. But that is just his imagination. He could not support such an idea. But I have been called a very narrow fellow and I will admit it is true, but I believe you will pardon me when I explain to you, in Matt. 7-14, we have this scripture: Because straight is the gate, narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

Now when I saw the way was narrow, I could not see, for the life of me, how a Christian who had obeyed the Sacred Standard, and a member of the body of Christ, could get through such a narrow trail. With a Carnal product upon each arm and a dozen others swining to his coat tail. It looked to me like if he made it through that narrow road, he would have to unload. A Christian's business is to teach those people who have obeyed a Carnal Standard and became a member of a Carnal institution, which had stolen a sacred title, which belongs to the body of Christ, that they were wrong. But if he don't, when he gets to the judgment, he will wish he had.—Geo. W. Anderson.

After seeing Nancy Carroll's "Laughter", a friend and I discussed the ways to pronounce it. We contended, mutually, that down here where we laugh because something humorous provokes it, and it should be pronounced with an inflection on the "a" as in that. In the smarter circles it should be pronounced "loff" with an inflection on the "a" as in ah. Down here in God's country, we pronounce it "laff"—and the world laughs with you.

Here's a good election day joke on both parties concerned:

A negro came into the polls to vote. He was immediately challenged by the Democrats, who thought it was another Republican vote. After failure to identify himself as a voter in the Matthews precinct, he told them he usually voted in Canalou. More debate ensued, when the Republican challenger said that if the negro was not allowed to vote there, he would take him to Canalou in his car so that he might vote. Finally, the Democrats decided to let him vote. Turning to the negro, the Democrat asked in a surly voice, How do you want to vote, boy?

Ah wants to vote a straight Democratic ticket, suh", he answered in a very definite tone of voice.

Home Furnishings—Our 1st Year in Sikeston

No rubbing it out—these bankrupt prices on good cast iron ranges are nothing less than sensational—$29.50 for a regular $48.50 model is a good buy. See the entire line.

$100 living room suits at $49.50 and $35.00 Lane cedar chests at $20.00 are also among the super values which will not be available again after the present stock is exhausted.

And there are also a number of regular $39.50 nicely enameled kitchen cabinets which are marked down to $25.00. Some bargain if the court knows itself.

For a slight addition to cover cost of financing any of these excellent values may be purchased on weekly or monthly payments. There's a page in our ledger for you.

After a week of hard work—night and day—by the force, the stock has been thoroughly cleaned up, rearranged and in many spots replenished. Hundreds of callers were in Saturday looking over the sale prices, many of them buying. A lot of folks complimented the new arrangement and wished us good luck. The building has been leased, hence we're off to a very satisfactory start as a Sikeston furniture store.

Mr. Leach, for years with Mr. Rose, will continue with us as head salesman and will be pleased to add to his list of patrons whom he has served in the past. F. D. Lair, Sr., of the Charleston store, will assist, while Mrs. Wesley Lair will take care of the cashier's desk and posting of accounts. All our energies will be devoted to efficient operation and store improvement as conditions may justify. Every item sold must be as represented or money refunded. This applies to used articles as well as new. Free delivery all over Southeast Missouri on bills worth while, will be maintained and businesslike terms of payment granted to all worthy of credit. You are invited to join our long list of satisfied patrons.

Among our Sikeston deals this week, we note an order for several hundred dollars inlaid linoleum—which is to be cemented to the floor. This is the one best way of installing linoleum. We have men who know how to do it.

It would be scarcely less than discourteous if we failed to acknowledge the favors and encouraging words of many Sikestonians relating to our new enterprise. Very nice of you indeed and much appreciated. Our only promise is that if hard work and a desire to render good service will make good with you—we'll get along right well.

FIVE SCOTT COUNTY STUDENTS APPEAR ON CENTRAL COLLEGE ROLL

Four Sikeston students and one Matthews student are included on the list of Scott and New Madrid Counties representatives at Central College, Fayette, this year. They are: Robert Dempster, Ross Killgore, Hazel F. Lumsden and Carroll Sutton of Sikeston, and William Roberts of Matthews.

Fourteen States, including Hawaii, and 79 Missouri Counties are represented on the Central student roll this term.

The Central enrollment for the opening semester totals 619 students. Administrative officers look to an increase in the second-semester enrollment; with a normal summer school the 1930-31 enrollment, including the three regular terms, is expected to total 1000 students, which has been the annual enrollment at Central since 1928.

I RECKON SO

It seems that while President Hoover was addressing the bankers, the world's series were being played the king of Spain was having his troubles and other things were happening in the wide, wide world a really significant thing was happening in Dixie.

Yes, suh, it was important. It was a profound debate over the recent column on sorghum molasses, the methods of sopping, the best means of putting in the butter, the grammar of the sorghum makers and other important and fascinating details. Billy Sisson of Memphis, brings tears to my eyes by his tribute to ribbon can syrup, though his intolerance toward sorghum is heart rending.

"In that article," writes Mr. Sisson, "you state that dictionaries define sorghum as a cereal grain used mainly for fodder. That is correct. At least, it is correct down south where I was reared.

"Down in that section of Mississippi no one who was anyone at all ate sorghum. But everyone did eat ribbon cane molasses, for ribbon cane makes molasses that is molasses.

"You brag about being a one-stroke sopper. I don't see how you can be successful for an old negro down home gave a good description of sorghum when he said 'it takes too many biscuits to hem them up'. It is too thin. But there is nothing better on a cold morning than good ribbon cane molasses, hot biscuits and plenty of good country butter. That's a breakfast fit for a king".

There is, of course, no use arguing with anyone who is wedded to his idols. There are things I could say about ribbon cane that would utterly crush Mr. Sisson's proud spirit but instead we leave him in charity and pass on to one whose heart beats in unison with a million sorghum molasses mills in our fair southland.

"Your discussion of sorghum molasses," writes J. A. Burt of Gunnison, Miss., "was a masterpiece and it shows you have been a profound student in your research work.

"Yet, I feel that I have gone into the matter a little deeper, having eaten sorghum molasses with butter and hot biscuits for 50 years.

"From all these years of experience I have evolved the formula to get the best results. First, get your biscuits hot from the oven, butter six or eight at the time. Then put butter into the molasses and take a fork and beat the mixture until creamy. Separate the biscuits one at a time and place the buttered side down into the molasses. Quarter the biscuits, turn over and eat with a fork.

"Sopping, which you favor, is no doubt good but taste of an epicure that lingers long. I give this for the information of those prospering under Hoover's administration...."

That would leave most of us out, but fortunately sorghum making is still practiced amongst Democrats and will doubtless tide us over until the elections of 1932.

But from another point in Mississippi comes authoritative word on the subject.

"You are mixed on your grammar," writes W. R. McCormack, Corinth, Miss., "on the singular and plural of molasses or sorghum.

"The word 'lasses' is singular. The plural of 'lasses' is 'mo-lasses'. Please get this right.

The point is well taken. At the same time the phrase I quoted is absolutely correct, to-wit: "Is them (or those) mo-lasses done yet?"

Many of us who eat molasses refer to it in the singular just as we do to measles, mumps, license and cheese, but my point was that the person who is best fitted to make molasses always regards "them" as plural. I never would trust a man to make molasses who spoke of molasses as "it".

Wisdom on this important subject, however, is not confined to Mississippi.

pi. From the mountains of East Tennessee comes word that all hope of reforming the Republicans of that section is not wholly lost as they also appreciate sorghum molasses.

"I believe, upon diligent inquiry among East Tennesseans," writes R. P. Suite, Newport, Tenn., editor of the Newport Plain Talk, "that you will find that the proper way to eat sorghum is to mix the butter with the molasses. It is handier and makes the sopping much more convenient.

"Some folks, however, will tell you that sorghum is absolutely worthless without cornbread. That, of course is simply a matter of taste. The cornbread eaters in these East Tennessee mountains years ago composed a little lyric in this connection which is well known by many of the older people. The rhyme goes like this:

"Nothing in this world
Far surpasses,
Good cornbread and
Sorghum molasses".

Editor Suite closed with a description of an old-time molasses making on a farm, a scene that would bring joy to the Young Confederates who want to turn back the tide of industrialism and get the south back on the farm.

From Nashville, however, comes the final word and authority on the subject of mixing the butter with the molasses. This reader gives it a name, which is "mess-up".

"I always enjoy reading your column which is often history to me but today you came down to my time and took me back to childhood in a little country town", writes Emmett Russell, Jr.

"Those molasses—they recall the time when my dad used to ask me to get in his lap after I had finished my supper and he would fix me something good—something like his dad used to fix for him.

"He put a hunk of butter on one side of the plate, after he had cleaned it off with a piece of biscuit and poured molasses over it. He worked the sorghum and butter all up together with his knife which gave them a creamy color. While recounting his days as a boy working around the mill during sorghum time he fed them to me on hot biscuits. Dad dignified this delicacy with the name of 'mess-up'. If you will come over to our house during sorghum time I'll get him to make you some 'mess-up' and Aunt Etta to keep us in old-time hot biscuits....."

Mr. Sisson wonders how I can be successful as a one-stroke sopper with sorghum. Ah, sir, one impugns my honor when he casts doubts on my technique. It is the work of art and skill to sop with the rapier-like rapidity of the expert one-stroke sopper. The two-stroke method is slow and slovenly, I am perfectly willing to use the one-stroke method while wearing a new $3 necktie. Not one drop, my dear sir, will fall on the new scarf!

If times were not so hard I'd challenge Mr. Sisson to a molasses duel. He may have choice or weapons as the challenged party, though I'd prefer to stick to sorghum molasses and permit him to the ribbon cane syrup. Using the one-stroke method and Mr. Sisson the two-stroke method, I'd guarantee to demolish more biscuits at two paces distance than Mr. Sisson with all his craftsmanship and molasses skill. The duel to be held on neutral ground in the dining room of the Hotel Andrew Johnson at Knoxville. But I refrain, Mr. Sisson and I together could not possibly pay for all those biscuits!—T. H. Alexander in Commercial Appeal.

VETS EMPLOY SECRETARY TO PRESENT WAR CLAIMS

Harold V. Snell, national liaison officer for the Disabled Veterans of the late World War, explains in the following article the purposes of the organization by that name, and urges co-operation with the recently established Kansas City office on the part of all claimants.

Editorial Note.

The Disabled American Veterans of the World War is a nationally recognized ex-service men's organization, the membership being limited to those who were wounded or disabled either by disease or injury during their World War service. It is the only organization of its kind in the world. The national headquarters of the organization are in Cincinnati, Ohio. In most of the States the State Department is maintained to place before the National Convention the mandates of the local chapters.

Our membership is limited to the above distinguished group and roughly speaking, there are only 250,000 eligibles in the country. Each member receives a semi-monthly newspaper published by our national headquarters that gives the latest information as to Veterans' Bureau regulations and Directors' decisions and helps the regional offices throughout the country by having this group of men instructed as to what they are entitled to and may expect by legislation from time to time.

There is maintained in the Washington office a rehabilitation chairman who has a double duty to perform, namely, legislation and liaison service. He is responsible to our organization for the amount of money recovered in the United States for the disabled veterans. He is ably assisted by trained liaison officers in every office of the U. S. Veterans Bureau. He takes the resolutions as mandated by the National Convention and has then presented to Congress in a business manner every year. Many of the amendments to the World War Veterans Act are now laws only because of the DAV Organization.

The Liaison service takes up a great field in matters pertaining to compensation, disability allowance, insurance, hospitalization, guardianships and burials. A man does not necessarily have to hold a card in our organization to be entitled to the benefits that he may derive from the Liaison Officer of his district. Any matters that might come under the jurisdiction of the Kansas City Regional Office will gladly be answered if the Veteran will write, giving their claim number, to Harold V. Snell, 600 Medical Arts Building Kansas City, Mo.

LOVE, PLUMAGE, VANITY BRING TRAGIC DEATH

Neither is 'that little thing called love' any large contributor to the peace and quiet of game conservationists.

But don't jump to conclusions. The trials and tribulations in this case are caused by the wild creatures themselves.

Certain species of wild life suffer from their own susceptibility to acute attacks of romance or from the fine raiment and other discreet vanities they affect in courting, according to officials of the American Game Protective Association.

Instead of love laughing at locksmiths, said the officials, in the out-of-doors it sometimes laughs at actual extermination.

A good example is the wood duck, they said. This most gaudily decked waterfowl, native American swain—so busy proving that home-grown sons can occasionally compete with those visiting princes—is either vain and foolhardy or inattentive to such outside details as a hunter's gun. Added to the decrease of waterside woods, his habit of tempting poachers' bullets carried him near extinction. Under State and Federal protection, he is only now on the increase, the officials said, and appears to be plentiful this year in Michigan.

Those notorious lovers, the doves, said the game men, spend so much time lovey-dovey they have little time for home-building. Their settings of one or two eggs are often lost through openings in hastily-rigged nests.

Which reminded officials of the most famous of bird love-tragedies. A comparatively few years ago the passenger pigeon was a wonder of the world because of its number. Its flights about America appalled the citizens, blotting out the sky for hours at a time and breaking down trees with their weight when they paused.

But with this beautiful bird life

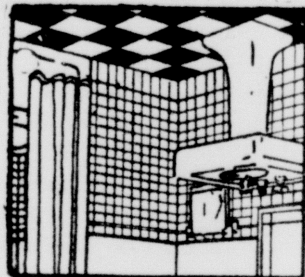

was an eternal dream of blissful mating, officials related. In nesting grounds covering many miles each welcomed a new heir every month except during the dead of winter. While nesting they were easy prey to thousands of men who carted them and their squabs away by the hundreds of wagon loads. Now not a single passenger pigeon is known to exist the game officials declared.

Likewise the snowy egret tottered on the brink of extermination because of its love-plumes, which bloomed only in mating season and were in great demand for milady's hats, the officials pointed out. With this demand continuing abroad, game protectors for years have waged actual battle against poachers in the lonely marshlands of the gulf coast. Now the egret, of beauty's highest royalty, is steadily blooming, courting and multiplying, reports to the game association show.

HOW IT HAPPENED

According to figures recently compiled by the Missouri State Highway Commission, there were 727 auto accidents reported to the highway department during August, 1930. The nature of these accidents were reported as follows:

Collision of car with pedestrian... 72
Collision of car with children... 37
Collision of car with live stock... 6
Collision with auto, bus or truck... 285
Collision of motorcycle, bicycle,

Eventually You'll Call the Plumber—

Those makeshift repairs and hoping against hope that the old trouble will not return, ends up in disaster every time. Sooner or later the services of a good plumber are going to be absolutely necessary and all our futile work goes for naught. Take heed and have all those little things tended to by a good plumber now. It's ultimate economy.

Spraying during the dormant period of the trees is the best remedy for the San Jose scale, one of the serious orchard pests of the country. Lime-sulphur sprays, petroleum sprays, and soap washes are effective against this pest. Spray the trees in late fall after the foliage is off, in the winter, or in spring before the foliage appears. It is usually desirable to prune infested trees severely, to simplify the work of spraying and to promote new growth of non-infested wood.

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE ABOUT TAXES

THE United States has made great forward strides in the last 40 years in national wealth, in population, in industrial development and in business generally, including imports and exports. Railway investment, earnings, expenses and traffic also have grown rapidly in that period, but railway taxes have grown faster than any of the other factors. The tax bill of the American railroads in 1890 was $31,000,000. In 1929 it was $396,682,634, an increase of 1180 per cent.

q This means that nearly one-fourth of the net operating revenues of the American railroads was paid to various federal, state and local governments. In other words it means that nearly one-fourth of the total effort of railways now is devoted to producing net operating revenue sufficient to pay the taxes on railway property as a whole.

q Every industry has felt the increasing burden of taxation and every industry is devoting attention to its own tax troubles. The public as a whole recognizes the grave problem that has resulted from the fact that taxes are rising steadily and growing progressively more burdensome, but something must be done about it.

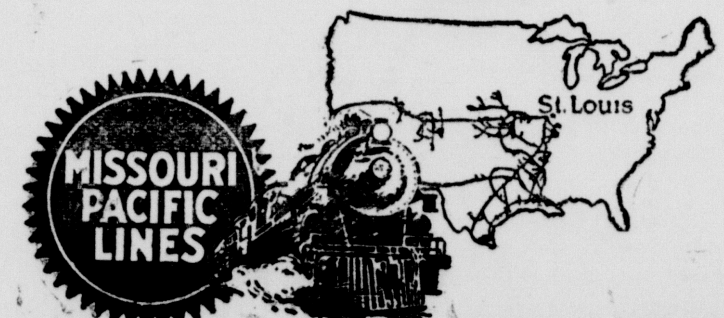

q In considering the tax problems of this country, however, it should be remembered that while railroad tax, period 1890 to 1929, increased 1180 per cent, taxes other than those paid by the railways increased only 952 per cent. The railway tax growth was one-fourth greater than that of the tax bill of other industries and individuals combined.

q At the end of 1929 railway taxes had mounted to a larger annual total than ever before. Railway taxes were greater last year than in any corresponding period in history and they absorbed 6.32 cents of each gross dollar received by the railways.

q The rise in railway taxes in the last 40 years therefore is 13 times the growth in population and three times the gain in national wealth in this country and this is a problem which demands and deserves the most careful consideration of every citizen.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

Rev. J. S. Compere left Sunday for Kansas City to attend an Executive Board meeting of the Baptist Church of Missouri.

Mrs. Mary Hart and little daughter, Betty, left Saturday evening for East St. Louis, where they will make their home.

Mrs. James Sheppard was hostess to her Sewing Club last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chevre. The time was spent dressing dolls and making flowers. The ten members present were served a lovely lunch.

Mrs. J. B. Simpson was hostess to the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist church last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Sam Cavitt presided over the business session in which work for the coming winter was planned. Mrs. Simpson served a plate lunch.

Last Thursday evening Rev. J. S. Compere, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the following men of his official board, O. W. Wise, E. D. Jones and D. D. Hill were in Cape Girardeau to assist in the ordination of Rev. Moore, which was held at the Red Star Baptist church. Rev. Compere preached the ordination sermon.

Chaperoned by their sponsor, Miss Mary Lee Simpson, the Senior Class Friday evening enjoyed a hay ride. They drove to Benton, where they stopped to partake of a delicious lunch. They then went to Cape Girardeau and visited with the Charleston girls in college there. College yells and songs were rendered along the way.

Some twenty-five guests dressed in costume were entertained at a Halloween party Friday evening given by Miss Nellie Scott. Dressed as a ghost, the hostess received the guests who were conducted to the attic which was decorated appropriately for Halloween. Games, dancing and fortune telling were the features of entertainment. Lovely refreshments were served by the gracious young hostess.

Officers Clarence Lane, J. W. Arnold and Trump Corbett captured Othel Braggett, age 19 years, of Mound City, Ill., John Hatfield, 19, and Corliss Hollowell, 22, both of Cairo, Monday afternoon in a thicket on the Missouri shore, one mile above the old Greenfield Landing, opposite 28th Street Cairo, as they were busy cooking 60 gallons of mash. The officers secured one quart of whiskey and five barrels each of 60 gallon capacity, of mash. The men were brought here and placed in jail and are awaiting to make bond.

SIX FINED FOR HUNTING DUCKS ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Four trespassers on the hunting grounds of the Wilkie Land Co., near Wilkie Station on the Burlington Railroad in St. Charles County, were fined Sunday by Justice of the Peace Max Frey of St. Charles. Arrested by a Federal game warden, they were charged under a State game law prohibiting trespassing on private property for the purpose of hunting. The trespassers from St. Louis were fined $10 and costs, each amounting to $21.50, but $9 of each fine was stayed because they had not killed any ducks.

A week ago two St. Louisians were fined $10 and costs each for trespassing on the same property, the maximum fine being collected because they were in possession of game.

"PROSPERITY EDITORIAL" RECEIVES NATION-WIDE PUBLICITY SAYS H. A. HILL

Mr. Charles Blanton, Sr., Skeston, Missouri.
Dear Mr. Blanton:

I am very pleased to inform you that your editorial, copies of which we sent to our 2300 clubs and a thousand chambers of commerce throughout the country, has been printed in newspapers all over the United States and Canada. Quite a number of them have quoted absolutely word for word our release, giving The Standard credit for bringing forth this idea. It is very pleasing to me to see the results in the communities whose papers published these articles.

I wish to express to you the appreciation of this entire Association for your kind co-operation, and I believe that it has benefitted thousands of people throughout the entire country.

Very truly yours,

France, England, and the United States have taken definite steps to beautify main arteries of travel. In the United States, the federal government is now authorized to bear one-half the expense, with the several States for planting shade trees along the highways of its vast interstate system.

Crop rotation, clean fall plowing and a clean-up of cornstalks will control barley scab, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probably the best means of disposing of badly scabbed barley is to feed it to cattle or sheep. It is not satisfactory for hog feed. No scab-resistant varieties of barley have been found or developed.

Many States are making war on roadside advertising. According to an article recently published in the Michigan Road Journal, 'The Pennsylvania Department of Highway recently destroyed 32,225 roadside signs embodying every type of blurb, daub, scrawl, and tattered legend that came within the definition of illegal advertising'.

An archaeological expedition digging in the Euphrates Valley kept unearthing city built on city, at a certain spot. Reaching the fourth layer denoting a civilization built upon an older one, the explorers found themselves standing among the ruins of Calush, mentioned in Genesis, and full 7000 years old. And among these ruins was a clay pot containing broken fragments of pottery, and upon it an inscription by the priest who had collected them, telling that they were the remains of some ancient and forgotten folk, found while he, this 7,000-year-old priest, was digging the foundation of the temple.

Proteins from animal sources are generally better for poultry feeding than those of vegetable origin, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Meat scrap, fish meal, and tankage are good sources of animal protein and supply valuable minerals in addition. Another advantage of animal proteins, especially milk and meat scrap, is that they are highly digestible. Protein in a good grade of fish meal is probably equal to the same amount of protein in meat scrap. Tankage is not so good as the other proteins for poultry and needs to be supplemented with minerals. One of the best sources of animal protein is milk, which has a relatively greater feeding value than its actual protein content. It helps to prevent mortality of baby chicks, to increase the rate of gain of growing chicks, and to increase the feed consumption and egg production of laying stock.

A Standardized Service

Here we do not have one price for the wealthy and another price for the patron of moderate means. Nor does the price paid regulate the character of service and equipment offered. UNPLUNDERED TOMB IN MESOPOTAMIA

Philadelphia, November 3.—An ancient tomb containing a terra cotta sarcophagus, pottery and beautiful bronzes, has been discovered at Tell Billa in Northern Mesopotamia by a University of Pennsylvania Museum archaeological expedition under the direction of Dr. Ephraim A. Speiser.

The tomb is thought by Dr. Speiser to belong to the rule of the Persian Achaemenid dynasty, about 540-330 B. C., brought to an end by the conquests of Alexander the Great.

"Ancient tombs which have not long been plundered of their contents are seldom found by archaeologists, and the uncovering of such a tomb at Tell Billa encourages the belief that continued excavations there will disclose other important relics of archaeological significance," Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the museum, said in announcing the discovery.

"Tell Billa, one of the largest and most imposing mounds in ancient Assyria, is 15 miles northeast of Mosul and about five miles east of the famous ruins of Khorsabad. It first attracted the attention of Dr. Speiser four years ago when he was making an archaeological survey of Northern Iraq.

"Further interest attaches to the site because Tell Billa was one of the places through which the famous 'Ten Thousand' passed on their retreat after the battle of Cunaxa in 401 B. C., when Cyrus with 10,000 Greek mercenaries was killed in an attempt to wrest the Persian throne from his brother, Artaxerxes II.

"During the entire period from about 4000 B. C. until the end of the Assyrian Empire in 606 B. C., the site of Tell Billa was occupied constantly, which adds to the likelihood that excavation there will yield sculpture from the golden age of Assyrian art as well as pre-historic remains of the aboriginal population of the land."

More Wagons For Corn Harvest

Many farmers could increase their efficiency during the late fall and early winter with an extra wagon on the farm. One Corn Belt farmer found that he could secure greater capacity from his corn picker by using five wagons. Two loaded wagons were hauled at one time with a team from the field to the crib where a gasoline engine powered elevator made it easy for one man to unload and crib the corn. With the extra wagons, there was no valuable time lost in holding up the tractor and corn picker and as a result the corn was out before bad weather would have made it more difficult to operate.

An extra wagon comes in handy for holding snapped corn for feeding in lots and also for the convenient handling of fodder when chopping or grinding.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM NEW MADRID

Burl Underwood of Parma looked after business matters here Wednesday.

Miss Clara Drinkwater spent the week-end with her parents in Charleston.

Lloyd Raidt of St. Louis, former resident of New Madrid, spent the week here visiting friends.

Mrs. Jennie Mitchell is spending the week in Memphis, Tenn., with her son, C. A. Mitchell and family.

Mrs. Dan McCoy, Jr., of Skeston spent Tuesday and Wednesday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bock and family.

Attorney E. F. Sharp and W. S. Edwards motored to Ste. Genevieve Thursday, where they attended to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Allison and the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Winston, of Poplar Bluff, spent Sunday here with relatives.

Misses Hazel Wolwick and Mildred Kerr attended the Missouri State Christian Endeavor Convention at Cape Girardeau, Thursday.

Lee Willett, a former resident of this city, en route to New Orleans, La., spent a few hours here Wednesday with relatives and friends.

Mrs. W. V. Appuhn returned to her home in Quincy, Ill., this week, after a month's visit here with her mother, Mrs. Birdie Ransburgh and family.

Mrs. J. K. Robbins and daughter, Mrs. C. W. Lewis of St. Louis spent the week with her husband, J. K. Robbins, near Marston, and other relatives.

Attorney George H. Traylor motored to Cairo Friday to visit his wife and daughter, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Jr. The latter is convalescing from an operation at St. Mary's Infirmary.

Misses Lucille Sloas and Alice Crisler were Skeston visitors Wednesday evening, where they attended Malone Theatre, and also visited the latter's sister, Miss Florence Crisler.

A dance, featuring Ish Blank's orchestra, will be held here in Hunter's Hall, Wednesday evening. This orchestra has played here before and was well liked, and a large crowd is expected.

Misses Mary Waters and Laura Digges spent the week in St. Louis visiting friends and shopping. On their return, Miss Waters will stop at Farmington, where she will remain for a visit with her sister.

Dr. M. C. Mill mailed the first Christmas package of the year at the postoffice here this week, when he mailed a box to Miss Elenor Clendon, Bubbulpore, India, which will take from 40 to 48 days to reach its destination.

Mrs. F. M. Robbins and son, Monroe, returned to Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday, after spending the early part of the week here. They were accompanied by Mrs. Louis Shainberg, who spent the night relatives, and returned home Thursday.

Little Miss Kathryn Baynes and thirteen of her friends enjoyed a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Baynes, after school, Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being her sixth birthday anniversary. The honoree received many pretty gifts from her guests.

The New Madrid Owls lost their second game out of six played during the season, when they were defeated by Kennett, on that field, by a score of 21 to 0, Friday afternoon. They will again play Portageville next Friday afternoon, having defeated them once this season. Portageville's team has improved and expect to show the New Madrid pig skin chasers some opposition this time.

Word was received by friends here that Mrs. A. B. Fairfield, of Blytheville, Ark., was found dead in bed Friday morning. She had been ill for several days, but her condition was not thought to be serious. Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield were former residents of New Madrid, having operated the Commercial Hotel here about 17 years ago. Burial was made at Blytheville Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Lizzie Park was the gracious hostess to the Methodist Missionary Society at her home on Main Street, Thursday afternoon. Rev. M. H. Markley conducted the devotional part of the meeting. Plans were made to carry out some home mission work, and Miss Parson, representative of the Missouri Orphans' Home in St. Louis, was present and gave an interesting account of the work being done in the home. After all business was attended to, the hostess served a delicious luncheon.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MORLEY

Little Jackie Finney is on the sick list.

Clarence Beardslee was a business visitor at Rector, Ark., Friday.

Mrs. Mary Thompson spent the week with her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Leslie.

Rev. McCoyne, pastor of the pentecostal church, left last week for Illinois to make his home.

Mesdames C. D. Cummins and Harris Foster were Cape Girardeau business visitors Thursday.

Miss Erma Harris of St. Louis is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lillie Harris at the J. R. Lee residence.

John Sikes of Ste. Genevieve was in town a few hours Saturday. He was enroute to Texas for his health.

Mrs. Eugenia Tomlinson left Thursday for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. P. R. Williams of Cape Girardeau.

The music pupils of Mrs. B. F. Seabaugh gave a recital at the gym Thursday night, which was much enjoyed by those present.

Mrs. H. F. Emerson and Mrs. R. H. Leslie went to Piedmont Thursday to attend a meeting of the Woman's Club at that place, returning Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Forgason and family of Rector, Ark., arrived Saturday to visit several days at the Marvin Gibbs home and with friends.

Elbert Skipper left Friday for his home in El Centro, Calif., after a 3 weeks' visit with his cousin, Mrs. U. A. Emerson and many friends here.

Mrs. Albert Foster has pieced thirteen quilts from silk stockings in the past year. She dyes them bright colors and combines them in such a way that she makes beautiful quilts.

The Senior Class presented an excellent program at the assembly period for the high school Friday. These programs will be weekly for this school year and the Juniors will be on duty next Friday.

The local football boys journeyed to Puxico Friday where they were defeated with a score of 6 to 0. Jim MacEmerson suffered an injury to his knee which will likely keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

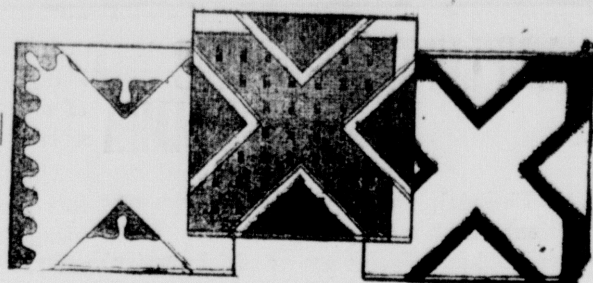

The Baptist Missionary Society met with Mrs. Lottie Leslie Wednesday with a large crowd present. The subject was China, with Mrs. J. R. Lee as leader. Interesting topics were read and discussed and a profitable meeting held. Mrs. B. F. Earles assisted the hostess in serving a plate lunch at the conclusion of the program.

LOCALS SHOW UNEXPECTED STRENGTH IN BLANKING DONIPHAN 38-0 HERE FRIDAY

Coach Cunningham's crew demonstrated for the first time this season, the real caliber of its football possibilities Friday afternoon by sending the rangy football invaders from the hill country, Doniphan in particular, home with the zero in a 38 to 0 score. Cox proved to be the mainstay of the Bulldog machine as far as ground gaining from straight football was concerned. Captain Billy Fox, however, added enough yards thru and around the line to merit mention. Young's heaves to Ancell and Whidden paved the way for additional markers, and heady football by the entire crew was enough to take the starch out of the invaders.

The Bulldogs proved themselves superior as ground gainers in scrimmage. They intercepted passes seemingly at will, and broke up offensive plays called for by the Doniphan quarterback. The work of Bailey, Bulldog tackle, was especially outstanding.

Wright, Richmond, Farmer, Boyett, Bennett and Paul divided honors on the visiting team as ball carriers. The passing combination, Wright or Richmond to Farmer and Gloré worked smoothly at times, and accounted for the one deep trip into Bulldog territory. The threat fell flat, however, while the Bulldogs continued to roll up additional points.

The first quarter ended scoreless with honors about evenly divided. The locals were superior in having gained more yards from scrimmage, while their guests had succeeded in rolling up a larger yardage from the aerial route.

The first marker came early in the second quarter after Cox and Capt. Billy had taken time about breaking through the line for first downs. Fox had placed the ball on the Doniphan 5-yard line, and Cox carried it over the chalk line on a long end run for the touchdown.

Young passed to Fitzgerald across the line for extra point and the parade of points started. Sikeston 7, Doniphan 0.

Sikeston kicked off to Wright on the Doniphan 28-yard line. Wright returned 10 yards. Richmond lost 3 yards. Boyett passed to Wright back of the line. Wright fumbled and recovered for a 1-yard gain. Sikeston time out. The ball was in play on the Doniphan 35-yard line. Wright starting from a pass formation lost one yard. Davis blocked Boyett's kick. Harrison Tanner recovered for Sikeston and the Bulldogs took the ball on the Doniphan 21-yard line.

Cox crashed the line for 9 yards. Fox added four, making it first down on the 8-yard line. Cox took the ball to the inch line and Fox had the honor of driving through center for the second touchdown. Young's pass to Ancell for extra point was knocked down and the Bulldogs chalked up a score of 13 to 0. Paul replaced Bennett as signal barker for Doniphan.

Sikeston kicked off after touchdown to Wright on the Doniphan 20-yard line. Wright returned 19 yards placing the ball in play on the 39-yard line. Sikeston end offside, and the play was called back. Sikeston kicked to Baumgardner, who was down on the Doniphan 46-yard line.

Wright gained seven yards on three line smashes. On the fourth down with only one to go, Paul failed to gain and the Bulldogs took the ball in midfield. Cox shook off tacklers and twisted his way through the entire Doniphan team for a sensation-84-yard run and a touchdown, making the score Sikeston 19, Doniphan 0. Bennett, Hayden and Keller replaced Tanner, Fitzgerald and Nicholson in the Sikeston lineup. The Bulldogs faked a place-kick and sent Fox through the line for extra point. Score, Sikeston 20, Doniphan 0.

Farmer returned the ball to the Doniphan 38-yard line after kickoff. Wright's pass was long. Boyett kicked to Young on the Sikeston 39-yard line. The ball was returned 20 yards to the Doniphan 40-yard mark.

Bennett gained 3 yards at left end. Cox went through for 15 yards and went down on the Doniphan 21-yard line. Fox added 5 yards. Whidden was replaced by Bob Nicholson at end. Bennett passed 16 yards over the goal line to Ancell for touchdown. Young's try for point was no good and the score was 26-0 as the half ended.

Both teams went on the field with their original lineups. Sikeston kicked off to Farmer on the 15-yard line. Farmer returned to midfield evading the entire Bulldog team. Fox made the tackle.

Boyett was stopped for no gain. Young intercepted Wright's pass intended for Farmer and dashed to the Sikeston 49-yard line. Fox lost 2 yards at center. Cox made up the loss and added one yard around left end. Young kicked to the Doniphan 30-yard line. Bennett made no gain at right guard. Fox intercepted a pass from Wright and carried the ball to the visitors' 29-yard line.

The Bulldogs were penalized 20 yards for roughing, placing the ball on the Doniphan 48-yard line. Cox made 13 yards on a long left end run. Young added 5 around at right end. Cox made first down on the Doniphan 25-yard line. Fitzgerald followed perfect interference to the Doniphan 15-yard line.

The ball was about 4 inches short of being first and ten. Fox went through center to the 9-yard line. Cox went across for another touchdown. Young passed to Whidden who was stopped at the line making the score 32-0.

Sikeston kicked off to Farmer, who returned from his 20-yard line to the Doniphan 40-yard marker. Keller went in for Buddy Thrower in the Sikeston line-up.

Boyett made no gain at right tackle. Cox intercepted a pass from Richmond's pass and ran 50 yards for a touchdown adding the final points to the Sikeston total. Young's pass to Fitzgerald was incomplete.

The visitors staged a partial comeback in the final quarter and held the locals scoreless. Cunningham substituted freely placing his reserves in the fray. "Speedy" Malone tried out as ball lugger late in the final frame and dusted his heels in the face of Doniphan tacklers repeatedly.

Penalties in the fourth quarter assessed in most cases against Ancell for "piling" probably cost the locals two or three touchdowns. Herb Moore, referee, was unusually liberal in his interpretation of that particular rule, and each interpretation was good for a 15-yard setback. The locals demonstrated more punch and drive in the Doniphan contest than in any other previous game this season or last, and defensively played "out of their heads". Every combination seemed to click perfectly, and the only lamentable item on the day's activities was the small crowd of Sikeston spectators. Editor Sheppard of the Doniphan Prospect News, remarked, "Why not tell the folks here that they have a ball game here this afternoon?", which is another way of saying that not more than fifty Sikestonians, school children excepted, attended the game.

The locals will find an entirely different set of conditions next Saturday in their last home game of the season with Cairo High School billed here. The game here Friday, however, was unusually clean, and injuries to the locals were nil—a condition which may work out favorably in preparation for the Cairo contest.

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet Tuesday night at 7 o'clock with Miss Ellen Helen Smith. All members are urged to attend.

Prime Long Island ducks, dressed and drawn at Piggly Wiggly Store. The Woman's Club will meet with Mrs. Frank Sikes Tuesday afternoon. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, Jr., and little daughter drove to Wolf Island Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Barney Wagner will be hostess at a Lotto party at the Marshall Hotel Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Altar Society of the Catholic church. Everyone who enjoys Lotto is cordially invited. The game starts at 2 o'clock.

DISTRICT AUXILIARY TO PRESENT PROGRAM

Mrs. Lyle Malone, president of the Sikeston American Legion Auxiliary was informed Monday morning by Miss Gertrude Bean of Illmo, chairman of the Armistice Day Program Committee November 11, that members of the Auxiliary in the Fourteenth District would present a program in Caruthersville between 11 and 12 o'clock Tuesday. Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary will convene in a huge patriotic demonstration in Caruthersville in commemoration of the signing of the Armistice which marked the end of hostilities in the late World War.

The program will of necessity be more or less impromptu and will consist of short addresses, vocal and instrumental numbers and mass singing.

Members of the Sikeston Drum and Bugle Corps paraded the city last Friday night, and initiated their new uniforms. Members of the group here are certain that no dressier outfits are owned by any other corps in the district. The Drum and Bugle Corps of this city and from Cape Girardeau will be present at Caruthersville.

WILD DUCKS GROW TAME; AS RESULT HUNTER ARE WILD

Norfolk, Va., November 7.—What are millionaire sportsmen to do when they spend a lot of money to raise wild ducks to shoot at and the ducks won't fly for them? That is the problem at the expensive hunting preserves in Back Bay, Va., and Currituck Sound, N. C., owned by W. E. Corey, steel magnate, and Joseph V. Knapp, director of many large corporations, including the American Lithographic Co.

Knapp thought wild ducks could be raised like tame ducks. He employed expert duck raisers, and set apart a tract of land on which the wild fowl were to have full sway. More than 1500 ducks were raised the first year. In 18 months the flock increased to 3800. It was decided to set them free so Knapp and his friends couldn't shoot at them. But the ducks wouldn't fly. They decided to hang around and get their three regular meals a day.

Knapp and his experts were dumbfounded. They let the ducks go hungry for a day or two. The ducks alarmed the entire settlement by their loud quacks of protest. Knapp could not stand the noise. He surrendered and ordered them fed as usual.

There the matter stands. Nobody wants to shoot a duck that will almost eat out of one's hand or swim out to a boat loaded with men armed with shotguns and greet them with a friendly "quack".

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM IN SCARLET FEVER CASES

According to Dr. G. W. Presnell, City Health Physician, there is no cause for alarm regarding the prevalence of five cases of scarlet fever in the city. At the present time, said Dr. Presnell, each case is quarantined, no new cases have been reported within the last 24 hours, and those stricken with the disease show improvement.

The City Health Physician cautioned parents to watch children closely, and report to their doctor any case of sore throat and fever.

Within 24 to 36 hours after the development of fever, the patient breaks out with a rash usually on the chest and face. A white ring is also noticed about the mouth. If parents will co-operate in reporting all cases and keeping known cases confined, there will be no cause for closing schools, churches, the theatre, or taking the ordinary stringent procedure incident of an epidemic, added Dr. Presnell.

Mrs. Tillman Anderson of Commerce visited relatives in Sikeston, Sunday.

The Russell-Bradley Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Lyle Malone, Friday evening. Mrs. Malone and Miss Lillian Putnam will be hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Roth, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barrett, Mrs. L. O. Rodes, Misses Audrey and Lydia Chaney went nutting Sunday. They report not many nuts found.

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church will have doughnuts for sale Thursday, November 13. Place your order early. Call Mrs. T. F. Baker, 471, or Mrs. B. F. Carroll, 379.

DON'T GET FOOLED

"Find the Twins—Win $3500", "How Far Did Lindy Fly?" "Solve This Puzzle and Win the Buick", "Find the Lucky Combination"—these are some of the inviting head lines of puzzle contest advertisements. The rest of the copy, in the finer print, is devoted to glowing descriptions of the wonder and value of the prizes and the ease of solving the puzzle. "Anyone Who Can Solve Puzzles May Win", is the repeated promise.

If you send in the simple solution, you promptly receive a letter, "Congratulations! Your answer is correct". The same assurance goes to everyone, no matter what the answer is. "We have credited you with the 9500 points for answering the advertisement. Now get ten subscriptions for our magazine (or sell $5 worth of our toilet preparations) and we will award you 485 more points".

These puzzle schemes are "bait" used to organize an army of amateur salesmen or subscription solicitors. Only a few can possibly win a worthwhile prize. The great majority spend their time, money and ingenuity for nothing, or at most, a meager commission for services rendered.

Many publications have taken a vigorous stand against such advertising. They decline to carry puzzle contest advertising. This constructive action has been taken to protect the public from imposition and to conserve confidence in advertising.

If you see this kind of advertising in any publication, call it to the attention of the Better Business Bureau and get all the facts. There is no cost or obligation. It's hard to get something for nothing.

SIKESTON GREENHOUSE WILL ENLARGE SOON

According to Wm. F. Woehlecke, owner and manager of the Sikeston greenhouse, the local plant is to be enlarged soon. Construction of another greenhouse, a modern office and shipping room will be started after Christmas. Mr. Woehlecke recently added a lean-to to take care of late fall and winter flowers.

While the summer drouth was not particularly encouraging to the local horticulturist and florist, he is convinced that the trade area will respond to better facilities for growing flowers, and his plans accordingly are for increasing the capacity of the plant here.

In response to a vigorous beautification campaign sponsored by the Sikeston Lions Club many home owners called Mr. Woehlecke into conference, and a dozen or more homeowners decided to contract the work to this newcomer in the community. The results as rated by the Lions' judging committee were gratifying and in most cases the expert work of Woehlecke was revealed in well-groomed and executed plantings, lawns, shrubs and flowers.

At the present time, the greenhouse is a mass of giant "mums". Huge masses some six to seven inches in diameter ranging in color from snow white to orchid and a brown heather mixture.

HOME TALENT SHOW SET FOR NOV. 20-21

Members of the American Legion Post 114 decided last week to hold their annual home talent minstrel on November 20-21. Active rehearsals for the show started Monday evening, November 10, and will continue every night until "show night". Mrs. Moore Greer will direct.

The cast will include many of the "all stars", who assisted with the Lions Club production last year, and other local talent which has heretofore lain dormant. The producers are convinced that the fun bill is one of the best ever concocted for local consumption.

SIMPLE PRECAUTIONS FOR CARE OF SPRAYER

While use of sprayers which are badly worn and will no longer do an efficient job of spraying is not to be recommended at any time, it is good policy to make spraying equipment give full service. Appreciation of attention necessary for maintenance of the fine working parts of large, power sprayers is much more widespread than formerly. Work of agricultural extension agents, manufacturers, and various information sources has helped to emphasize importance of sprayer care.

At this time of year, attention may well be called to some precautions which should be observed before storing the sprayer. Briefly, these include thorough flushing and draining of all parts, with attention to drain cocks and valves; oiling of moving parts and painting of tank, inside and out; cleaning and storing the hose in a dry place and oiling the rods and nozzles. Old crankcase oil may be left in the pump over winter or simply drawn through.

Prime Long Island ducks, dressed and drawn at Piggly Wiggly Store. The U. D. C. will meet with Mrs. Josephine Vieth, at the home of Mrs. Kate Greer Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson returned to Festus Sunday, after spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson.

In other places we notice where political speeches were made in high school auditoriums. Not so in Sikeston. Our school board opens the doors for barnstorming plays put on by outsiders, all sorts of practice drills, etc., by outsiders, but when it comes to political subjects that will some day interest every body and girl in the school district, they refuse the use of the building. The building was erected on the understanding and promise that it would be a real community building. The Standard will begin now to attempt to create sentiment to open the doors to debates on political and economic subjects for the future, or try our level best to defeat every member of the school board who opposes the proposition.

There was such a large crowd at the Hog Ford church last Sunday only those who came early could get a back seat.—Commercial Appeal.

One of Bishop Cannon's Methodist preachers back in Richmond, Va., has been convicted by a jury and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years for embezzling funds of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage. The article does not say whether he lost the money in stocks or spent it in stockings.

The Standard editor attended a meeting of country newspaper editors at the Statler Hotel, St. Louis, Friday, where shop talk was the order of the day. Incidentally, these country editors were certain conditions in country towns and country cities were not near so bad as was reported in the big cities.

From St. Louis comes word that a lone bandit held up a printing office and got away with $400. This is to advise prospective bandits that The Standard spends its cash p. d. q. after it reaches the shop.

The Municipal Light Plant at Columbia, Mo., has to its credit $125,000 on deposit in that city. Their rate is to be cut to 7½c per KWH for the first step, and each step reduced in proportion.

The Standard office was brightened Saturday morning by the sunny smiles of Miss Hallie Carey, formerly of this city, and her friend, Miss Dorothy Bauerle, both of the Cairo telephone force.

If there be any reflection in the election of November 4 in the agricultural sections of the Central West, it is against the tariff and the Farm Relief Board. The members of the Board, with their idle prattle, scared some farm communities to death, while in others, the farmer could see no relief whatever and knew it was but a lot of political bunk. The voter had his say on election day and spoke in no uncertain terms. If the farmer had the security he could get relief from local banks, and it took security to get it from the Farm Relief Board. To get right down to brass tacks, farmers in our trade territory have been, and are, hard hit, mostly from weather conditions, and will pull through the winter without much assistance, and the future, while not the brightest ever, holds a lot for those who have confidence in the Government, their neighbors and themselves.

THOSE REPORT CARDS

What sort of grades were on them? Well, don't worry too much about it. At least, do not abuse the child making I grades. Most pupils practically all students, are making just about what they are capable of. All can't make S grades or even M. About half of us, children and adults alike, are only average, ordinary folks, who are doing the work of the world. Some few of us are superior and some inferior, and it will always be thus.

You are to be congratulated if your child is of the student type and makes S grades, especially if he plans to go ahead where book-learning is required.

But the good, average boy or girl with M grades is O. K., especially if he or she, is taking part in outside activities.

And if a child can make only low grades, then he should be encouraged and helped to get into something that suits him better than academic work. All can be good citizens.

I sometimes wish we didn't give out any grades at all, just recorded credit. After all, it's the learning something and the art of thinking that counts, not grades.

Parents are encouraged to see the teachers about their children, and if habits of regularity, promptness and studiousness are encouraged at home that will help.

Much more time has been spent with the weaker pupils than with the strong. I wonder if it is just. Should not the exceptional child be given some extra attention?

We have more pupils trying to do better than they are doing, than we have those just trying to get by. Most children are conscientious.

Anyway, we remember the sign in the western church, "Please do not shoot the organist, she is doing the best she can".

I wish each parent would visit the school, and call at my office.

THIS WEEK IN MO. HISTORY

Columbia College first opened its doors to students ninety-six years ago this week—on November 10, 1834. This institution has been called the seed from which the University of Missouri grew.

In accordance with published announcements which had appeared in the Missouri Intelligencer during the preceding month, the college was formally started on its brief, though important career, with public ceremony. "At an early hour", the Intelligencer records, "many citizens assembled at the Court House, and were formed into a procession under the command of Capt. D. H. Hickman, who had been previously appointed marshal of the day. They then proceeded to the Presbyterian church, where the ceremony of inauguration took place. It is seldom we have witnessed a more interesting procession. Its brilliancy was especially heightened by the uniform and lovely appearance of the young ladies from the Female Academy, whose presence dispelled the gloom which an inclement day was calculated to inspire, and excited a deeper and more lively interest to the exercises of the day".

It was under such favorable auspices that the forerunner of the University of Missouri came into active existence. But if this may be called the first fruition of the seed which was to produce the State's highest institution of learning, the planting must be traced back to a mass meeting held more than three years earlier, on August 9, 1831, at the courthouse, where the citizens met "for the purpose of adopting a plan for the purchasing of a site for a seminary in the town of Columbia, and for the purpose of adopting some measures for having the same improved, by building an academy thereon".

At this meeting, Robert S. Barr was chairman, and Austin A. King later governor of Missouri, secretary. A committee composed of Mr. Barr, Oliver Parker, and James B. Nichols was appointed to draft a plan and select a site for the building. A campaign was started to raise the necessary money.

In the Intelligencer of September 10, 1831, the pecuniary advantages of "the College" to the people of Boone County were presented, with the reminder that it would not be long before the Legislature would be looking for a place to establish "a State college". It was suggested that the central Missouri town which had shown the greatest concern for the cause of education would probably be chosen.

Thus did Columbia and Boone County make an early bid for the State University. How they finally won it over the rivalry of other communities is an oft-recounted story, of which this is the proper beginning. Bids for construction were received

A PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR
OF THE CITY OF SIKESTON

Pledged to a program of usefulness and service to the community, State and Nation, The American Legion today enjoys the full confidence of the American public. Ever since it has been organized the Legion has exerted its best efforts in the behalf of good citizenship and in the building for a greater and better America. The Nation's defenders will always be honored for the glorious service they gave in war, but their desire to also serve in peace must command our deepest respect and admiration.

The public has direct interest in the Legion because of the worthy activities it carries on each year. The Legion has come to be recognized as a great stabilizing influence in American life with some 10,000 posts, embracing a membership of nearly 900,000 veterans of the World War, standing ready to serve their communities in whatever capacity they may. The Legion's community service work is well known. Every year the posts throughout the United States carry on scores of different types of community welfare and civic betterment projects.

The Legion's foremost work is caring for those who were maimed and disabled by their service in the war. Justice does not always flow automatically for the men who suffered war-incurred disabilities and the big task of the Legion has been to see that they receive all the compensation to which they are justly entitled and adequate hospital care and treatment. The Legion has likewise extended a helping hand to another class of war sufferers, the widows and orphan children of those who fought and died for their country.

The people of this city are duly appreciative of the splendid endeavors of The American Legion, and to Legionnaires they extend every encouragement to broaden and further expend their work in the future. Since the achievements of the Legion can be measured only in terms of its membership strength, it is highly desirable that the public should co-operate with the Legion in its attempt to enroll every eligible World War veteran into the ranks of Legion service.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, N. E. Fuchs, Mayor of the City of Sikeston, do hereby proclaim the week beginning November 4 and ending on Armistice Day, November 11, as American Legion Week, during which time an intensive drive will be made to enroll 1931 Legion members. I particularly ask that all citizens co-operate with the Legion in its effort to build a better and stronger organization for 1931 by urging eligible veterans to take out Legion membership during this campaign.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Sikeston to be affixed. Done in the City of Sikeston this 7th day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty.

N. E. FUCHS, Mayor

in March, 1832. The charter was obtained the next year. The home of the institution was erected in the southwestern "suburbs" of Columbia, on what is now South Sixth Street. It was built of brick, 60x26 feet in size, and two stories in height.

The trustees, Mr. Barr, A. W. Rollins, Richard Gentry, Warren Woodson, Thomas W. Conyers, William P. Cochran, James W. Moss, William Cornelius, Oliver Parker, David S. Lamme, John B. Gordon, David Todd and Sinclair Kirtley, held their first meeting in Captain Samuel Wall's tavern on the first Monday in May, 1833.

A final meeting to raise funds was held in June, 1833, and by the fall of 1834 all was ready for the opening. Thomas Miller, a graduate of Indiana College, who had recently had charge of the preparatory department of Transylvania University, was placed in supervision of the teaching, and the school formally dedicated and started.

The college closed before the University opened, but its building served the first classes of the State institution, whose earliest alumni were graduated from it in 1843. Columbia and Boone County, as the result of foresight and liberal financial inducements, had obtained the "State College" when the question of its location came up, following its establishment by the General Assembly's act of 1839. An eloquent pleader for Columbia was James S. Rollins, who came to be known as the "father of the university".

"Before I started taking Black-Draught, three years ago, my health was very bad," writes Mrs. C. C. Carson, 945 Concord St., Beaumont, Texas. "I suffered constantly from constipation. I had headache when I got up in the morning, and I felt dull and sluggish. I hardly ate a meal that my food agreed with me. Frequently I would have gas on my stomach, and felt awful."

"I read about Black-Draught, and I thought it might help me. After I had taken it a little while, I felt much better. It relieves constipation. I keep it on hand so when I need a laxative I will have it. In the three years I have been taking it, I have never found anything as good for constipation."

THE REAL LOW-DOWN

The most terrible piece of amateur acting it has ever been our hard luck to have to sit through was given by the High School pupils last night in that antiquated fire-hazard, called Zupke's Opera House.

The alleged play was written by the town's nosiest matron, Mrs. Ebenezer Forefinger, who is always into everything, and generally for no good purpose. The play shows her at her best, which is uniformly awful.

Irony of fate—our best advertiser's little pug-nosed and scrawny daughter, was the heroine. That fat-headed, pig-eyed, town pest, Eric Busby was the hero and was about as "dashing" (as the program billed him) as a mud turtle basking on a log.

Juliette Teter, knock-knees and all, gawky Billie Sawdy with his adenoids, Gertrude Featherstone, giggling throughout, and bratty little Oliver Tate, shooting spit-balls at the kids in the front rows, completed the so-called speaking parts.

The audience consisted of the families of those present, the janitor, and ye unfortunate editor. The women spent most of the time looking at what the others wore and mostly looked like accidents going somewhere to happen.

The second hand, Model T "Lizzie", introduced as a prop in the second act was the best thing in the show.

THE FICTION HE WROTE

Probably never in its brilliant history has the Zupke Opera House opened its doors to a more distinguished audience than taxed its capacity last night to witness the play given by our school's talented young thespians.

The play itself, entitled "A Gift From Heaven", is the crowning work of our most versatile and charming citizen, Mrs. Ebenezer Forefinger, and compares favorably with Booth Tarkington in his best moments.

Lack of time and space alone keeps us from the fulsome praise the piece, its author, and the gifted young people who took part in it, so justly deserve.

We have no adjectives that can describe the beautiful and petite Alys Niblick, daughter of our distinguished merchant prince and his gracious wife, Hiram, and Mrs. Niblick, Eric Busby as hero to this beautiful heroine, was a charming leading man with a dash and stage presence that reminded one of John Drew.

Attractive Juliette Teter, teaming with Billie Sawdy, had the audience entirely with them in their clever comedy parts. Oliver Tate and Gertrude Featherstone contributed greatly towards making "A Gift From Heaven" what it is, a perfectly balanced production, and a most convincing proof that our little city has more than its share of unusual talent.

DISTRICT LEGIONNAIRES TO MEET IN CARUTHERSVILLE

The Pemiscot County Post of the American Legion will be host to the Legionnaires of the Fourteenth Congressional District at Caruthersville on Armistice Day, November 11. They are expecting good representations from each Legion Post in this district and are planning plenty of entertainment for their visitors. Some of the features will be Band Concerts, addresses by prominent Legionnaires, a mammoth parade in which three musical units including the Skeston and Cape Girardeau Drum and Bugle Corps will participate, a football game between the Southeast Missouri Teachers' College of Cape Girardeau and the Caruthersville Junior College, a banquet and a dance in the evening.

This will be the second annual Armistice Day celebration which the Legion Posts of the Fourteenth District have held since their organization two years ago. The celebration last year was held at Cape Girardeau.

WHAT MAKES AN AMATEUR IN THE FLOWER GARDENS?

What is an amateur flower grower and what is a professional? It is almost as difficult to draw the line here as in some of the fields of sport, experience has shown. In his handbook on "Horticultural Exhibitions", just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Furman Lloyd Mulford, specialist in floriculture and landscape gardening, says it is not easy to draw the line with justice.

"An amateur", says Mr. Mulford, "is one who grows plants for the love of it, while the professional is one who grows them for the money he can secure from it. It would seem easy to class any who sold the products of their gardens as professionals, but this would be unjust to many enthusiastic amateurs who spend large sums for new varieties and occasionally sell some of the surplus materials to others and reinvest in new kinds. Many of these are unquestionably amateurs and are doing great good in the communities in which they live, as their acquisitions inspire other plant lovers. It would be eminently unfair to these people and to the cause they represent to class them as professionals. For this reason it seems wise to define an amateur as one who grows his plants for the love of it and whose sales from his garden do not equal his outlay for seeds and plants."

Darkened nests in the poultry house prevent the birds from acquiring the egg-eating habit. These nests are built out from the wall so the birds enter them from the rear, and have a door in front which is opened for gathering the eggs.

The best time of year to select breeding turkeys is in November or December, before most of them are sold for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets. Good breeders have large frames, a broad back, and deep body with full, well-rounded breast. Other points of importance are a full, bright eye, a broad head, and stout legs set well apart and not too long. Above all, choose birds that are vigorous. In the North, turkeys need covered roosting sheds during the winter months. They can stand considerable cold but should not be exposed to dampness.

HAWES ANNOUNCES NEW PLAN TO SAVE GAME AND FISH

A plan to conserve the game and fish of this country by encouraging reproduction instead of centering attention on laws to restrict the sportsmen was urged by United States Senator Harry B. Hawes yesterday in a luncheon address to members of the Wild Life Conservation Club, at the Mayfair Hotel.

This plan, which Senator Hawes declared is successfully used in European countries, will be sponsored by the conservation foundation, "More Game Birds in America", of which he is president, Hawes announced. The foundation will seek to have model game laws introduced in a number of States to test the theory.

Senator Hawes explained that the plan will be predicated on the theory that the game belongs to the land and not to the State. Farmers who will restore game birds on their land may realize a profit from a valuable by-product by leasing their land for hunting purposes or by selling outright to hunt on their land at a set price per bird.

Another vital necessity in preserving our game and fish is to divorce our game and fish laws from partisan politics, he declared. He urged that a plan be devised to select game enforcement officers through a non-partisan board of sportsmen.

Pointing out that 8,000,000 persons in the United States obtained hunting licenses and 15,000,000 persons obtained fishing licenses last year, Senator Hawes said that there still is a nation-wide interest in wild life and the outdoors. When a feeling for outdoor life is no longer present in America, this country will begin to slip as a government, he stated.

WE STICK UP OUR NOSE AT NOTHING

When we were schoolboys the teacher graded our paper 60 or 70, and that's all there was to it. We didn't call her names, appeal to the principal or go home crying to grandma.

But when we 60 or 70 per centers once go into business, hang out our shingle and sign our beflowered names to notes running seven years into the dim future, thenceforth and forever after no human being dare, at the risk of his hide, even utter the suspicion that we are less intellectual than Isaac Newton, less financially competent than J. P. Morgan, possess less selling ability than Chas. M. Schwab, or know less about production than the chief engineer of the General Motors Corporation.

In other words, while we are still learning with open minds, we are reasonably humble and capable of improvement. But once out of school, our brain-expansion is superseded by chest-expansion, and we become, nearly all of us, the motley collection of more or less green business men who make up the yellow classified section in the telephone directory—Spinal Colyums.

The temperature of the home refrigerator, in the milk compartment, should be kept at or below 45 degrees F if possible. Refrigeration is used to retard the development of bacteria in milk, and above this temperature, bacterial growth is very rapid, causing changes to take place in the milk that may render it unfit for food.

HERD TURKEYS AS THEY WOULD CATTLE

Turkeys are herded as cattle would be in an open range country on the Parker Rollins farm, seven miles north of Centralia. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins have 557 head of turkeys, all raised on the Rollins farm this year. It is the largest flock of young turkeys ever produced in this section in one year.

Mrs. Rollins started her turkey eggs in incubators, transferring them to hens after two weeks in the machines. The hens completed the job of hatching. Around 600 were hatched and there have been few losses. With the aid of a trained German police dog, this huge flock of turkeys is herded day and night by the Rollins family. They are so tame that a stranger can walk through the flock and pick up individuals at will.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins plan to sell this flock for the Thanksgiving market.—Paris Appeal.

BOOM IN OZARK COPPER INDUSTRY EXPECTED

Eminence, November 7.—A boom in the copper-mining industry in the Ozarks is expected to follow renewal of operations of the Shawnee Copper Mining Company mines on Shawnee Creek, six miles south of Eminence. Plans are being made to develop the copper industry in Shannon County. Work on the foundation for a new concentrating plant has been started.

WARD INFANT SUCCUMBS

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Ward, living east of Matthews died Saturday morning, November 8, and was buried that afternoon in the Skeston Cemetery, Welsh in charge. Funeral services were conducted at the house at 2:30 o'clock.

When planting unhulled sweetclover seed, sow it in late fall, winter, or early spring. Plant the seed late enough in the fall so it cannot germinate before spring. The action of moisture and frost breaks the seed coat and the seed will sprout with the first warm weather in spring. Unhulled seed is cheaper than hulled or scarified seed and may be seeded more liberally.

Homes That Refuse To Run Down

So sensitive to his surroundings is the normal person that he cannot live in a "run-down" house for long without suffering a "run-down" spirit and a "run-down" disposition. Nothing is more depressing than a house that shows signs of former beauty. Strangely, there are furnished which retain every homes that have never been reborn of their original attractiveness. The draperies and rugs reveal the secret. Those homes have taken full advantage of The Skeston Cleaning Company's Cleaning and Dyeing services. Well-equipped Cleaners and Dyers don't give homes a chance to run-down.

SIX BOTTLES OF KONJOLA ENDED STOMACH MISERY

Ailments Are Banished By Famed Medicine After All Else Tried Had Failed.

MR. GEORGE KOTTE

"I suffered from stomach trouble for a number of years", said Mr. Geo. Kotte, 5762 Theodosia avenue, St. Louis. "No matter what I took to gain relief, gas and bloating followed every meal. I always had a heavy feeling in my stomach and a sensation of fullness. My nerves became all upset and I spent many restless, sleepless nights. My complexion was yellow as the result of liver ailments and I had bilious attacks, headaches and dizzy spells.

"A neighbor had received such wonderful results from Konjola that he encouraged me to give this medicine a trial. After the sixth bottle I felt like a different man. My stomach trouble vanished. My nerves were strong again, and I sleep soundly through the entire night. Headaches and dizzy spells have vanished. Konjola rid me of all my ailments and I willingly recommend this great medicine to everyone."

So it goes; the same splendid story of success wherever Konjola is put to the test. Though Konjola works quickly, it is best to continue with the treatment for six or eight weeks to obtain thorough relief.

Konjola is sold in Skeston at the Derris Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Those who do not believe in evolution, read this and be convinced. Away back some forty years ago, when we first went to housekeeping, for convenience sake, the Missus and I ate in the kitchen, then as time passed and the eight children came to us, we evolved out of the kitchen into a large room, where all could be seated at one time. Then came the grandchildren and it was necessary to cut off a large section of the side porch for another room for the grandchildren, and this was called the breakfast room, though we have eaten dinner and supper in this room most ever since. Then when the children began to leave us for better or worse, the breakfast room table had the leaves taken out so we could help one another, and lo, and behold, Sunday morning we found a small table set in the kitchen with two plates, and we are right back where we started, except we are more in debt.

This is to inform Elder John B. Huffman and Bro. Geo. W. Anderson that no more space will be allowed for religious arguments, as there is nothing gained, neither convinced, and the public cares nothing for it.

From Sarasota, Fla., comes word, through the United Press, that a species of enormous sea turtle that "cackles" when it lays its eggs has been discovered by Capt. Clarence Roberts, veteran Sarasota pilot. The Captain must have had the second shot of Jamaica rum when he heard that turtle cackle. One drink of it will make a fellow see things.

Election is over, and the Democrats seem to have rather the best of it. Hard times helped, and the same may be said of the reaction against the 18th Amendment in instances where the successful candidates were avowedly wet. As usual, the outcome in New York State was awaited with interest. Gov. Roosevelt was returned to office by a substantial majority. Tammany received an airing, but the country and small town folk were not interested. This is in line with what has occurred in the past, under similar circumstances.

The editor and wife thank the manager and owner of the Sikeston Green House for a bunch of very fine chrysanthemums grown here in the local house. He has a beautiful lot now ready for delivery.

Jim Ham Lewis, wet Illinois aspirant to the senate, had his hopes fulfilled, and the wets claim to have made gains generally. Bad judgment in the matter of prohibition enforcement has irked many who otherwise would not have been interested enough to take sides, and the election served as a safety valve for their pent-up indignation.

Airplane transportation made it possible for the President to cast his ballot. Owing to the secrecy of the polls, it is not possible to state which ticket he voted.

Eighteen hundred men were required to put out election bonfires in New York City. The bonfire is a perfect symbol of the hot air that accompanies most elections.

The Commissioner of Education states that newspapers cater solely to adult minds so far as the publication of news is concerned, and suggests a page in each issue wherein the events which interest grown people be chronicled in a way, and in terms, which will reach the children also, and with the same effectiveness as comic and sporting pages.

According to testimony given in a pending lawsuit, the man who handles the gate receipts is the toughest opponent that a heavyweight champion meets, so far as taking the count is concerned.

To the Readers of The Standard:
Well, I am glad the Elder had a laugh because I corrected him. But I expect it was rather a forced laugh as we note he is now not going to build a church for Sikeston Working People, but is going to build a church house for them. Well that sounds better. He can do that if he can get the money. But I didn't think he could build a church for them. The Elder seems to think everybody ought to know what the church means. But many of them do not have the least idea what it is. So by correcting the Elder, I thought maybe together we might be able to give them a little light upon this very important subject.

Men down through the ages have taken this sacred title and applied it to carnal institutions until today people's minds have been led away from the church and as a result away from God. The Elder don't seem to want to deal with this corruption, so I will endeavor to do so in a brief way.

To begin with, we will call your attention to the fact that when a man says a thing is right or wrong, if he speaks as an intelligent person, he must have in mind some standard.

Now there are many standards in us. There's the Baptist church. It has its standard of right or wrong, the Methodists have theirs, the Nazarene has theirs, the Catholics theirs. Then there is the standard of the Nation and every State has its standard. These are all supposed to tell us what is right and what is wrong. Then there is another standard which is the word of God.

It tells us what is right and wrong also. It is the standard of the church which is the body, which Christ is the head of. Now a man can very easily tell whether he has a God given right to wear that sacred christian title by asking himself, what is my standard? Soon after the church was established upon the earth by Christ, Carnal institutions began to spring up all around and they were labeled with this sacred work church, which belongs to the body of Christ only. Such a sacred word should have never been given them, and as a result of this corruption, men have joined these Carnal institutions which has a Carnal standard, by the millions, thinking that they were getting into the real church, which is the body of Christ, which is governed by a sacred standard, which is the New Testament, which is the word of God.

These institutions being Carnal, but have a sacred title. Like begotting like, turns out nothing but a Carnal product and they give him a sacred title too and the poor fellow, thinks he will make it through to the glory land. But if someone should ask him if he is a member of the church, which is the body of Christ, which we read about in Bible, his answer would be, I do not know, sir. I have never looked to see, but I am a member of the little church down on the corner and that is good enough for me. But if he had gone to the Sacred Standard, turned to Act 2 and had gotten the correct information, how he might have obtained salvation and if he had obeyed the Holy order, he would have then been added to the church which is not built with brick and mortar, neither governed by a Carnal standard. He would have been added to the church which is so plainly portrayed in the Bible. He would have a God given right to wear that sacred Christian title.

Now the Elder is what I call a big broad fellow. He thinks members from every order will get to heaven. But that is just his imagination. He could not support such an idea. But I have been called a very narrow fellow and I will admit it is true, but I believe you will pardon me when I explain to you, in Matt. 7-14, we have this scripture: Because straight is the gate, narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

Now when I saw the way was narrow, I could not see, for the life of me, how a Christian who had obeyed the Sacred Standard, and a member of the body of Christ, could get through such a narrow trail. With a Carnal product upon each arm and a dozen others swining to his coat tail. It looked to me like if he made it through that narrow road, he would have to unload. A Christian's business is to teach those people who have obeyed a Carnal Standard and became a member of a Carnal institution, which had stolen a sacred title, which belongs to the body of Christ, that they were wrong. But if he don't, when he gets to the judgment, he will wish he had.—Geo. W. Anderson.

We contended, mutually, that down here where we laugh because something humorous provokes it, and it should be pronounced with an inflection on the "a" as in that. In the smarter circles it should be pronounced "loff" with an inflection on the "a" as in ah. Down here in God's country, we pronounce it "laff"—and the world laffs with you.

Here's a good election day joke on both parties concerned:

A negro came into the polls to vote. He was immediately challenged by the Democrats, who thought it was another Republican vote. After failure to identify himself as a voter in the Matthews precinct, he told them he usually voted in Canolou. More debate ensued, when the Republican challenger said that if the negro was not allowed to vote there, he would take him to Canolou in his car so that he might vote. Finally, the Democrats decided to let him vote. Turning to the negro, the Democrat asked in a surly voice, How do you want to vote, boy?

Ah wants to vote a straight Democratic ticket, suh", he answered in a very definite tone of voice.

No rubbing it out—these bankrupt prices on good cast iron ranges are nothing less than sensational—$29.50 for a regular $48.50 model is a good buy. See the entire line.

$100 living room suits at $49.50 and $35.00 Lane cedar chests at $20.00 are also among the super values which will not be available again after the present stock is exhausted.

And there are also a number of regular $39.50 nicely enameled kitchen cabinets which are marked down to $25.00. Some bargain if the court knows itself.

For a slight addition to cover cost of financing any of these excellent values may be purchased on weekly or monthly payments. There's a page in our ledger for you.

After a week of hard work—night and day—by the force, the stock has been thoroughly cleaned up, rearranged and in many spots replenished. Hundreds of callers were in Saturday looking over the sale prices, many of them buying. A lot of folks complimented the new arrangement and wished us good luck. The building has been leased, hence we're off to a very satisfactory start as a Sikeston furniture store.

Mr. Leach, for years with Mr. Rose, will continue with us as head salesman and will be pleased to add to his list of patrons whom he has served in the past. F. D. Lair, Sr., of the Charleston store, will assist, while Mrs. Wesley Lair will take care of the cashier's desk and posting of accounts. All our energies will be devoted to efficient operation and store improvement as conditions may justify. Every item sold must be as represented or money refunded. This applies to used articles as well as new. Free delivery all over Southeast Missouri on bills worth while, will be maintained and businesslike terms of payment granted to all worthy of credit. You are invited to join our long list of satisfied patrons.

Among our Sikeston deals this week, we note an order for several hundred dollars inlaid linoleum—which is to be cemented to the floor. This is the one best way of installing linoleum. We have men who know how to do it.

It would be scarcely less than discourteous if we failed to acknowledge the favors and encouraging words of many Sikestonians relating to our new enterprise. Very nice of you indeed and much appreciated. Our only promise is that if hard work and a desire to render good service will make good with you—we'll get along right well.

FIVE SCOTT COUNTY STUDENTS APPEAR ON CENTRAL COLLEGE ROLL

Four Skeston students and one Matthews student are included on the list of Scott and New Madrid Counties representatives at Central College, Fayette, this year. They are: Robert Dempster, Ross Killgore, Hazel F. Lumsden and Carroll Sutton of Skeston, and William Roberts of Matthews.

Fourteen States, including Hawaii, and 79 Missouri Counties are represented on the Central student roll this term.

The Central enrollment for the opening semester totals 619 students. Administrative officers look to an increase in the second-semester enrollment; with a normal summer school the 1930-31 enrollment, including the three regular terms, is expected to total 1000 students, which has been the annual enrollment at Central since 1928.

I RECKON SO

It seems that while President Hoover was addressing the bankers, the world's series were being played the king of Spain was having his troubles and other things were happening in the wide, wide world a really significant thing was happening in Dixie.

Yes, suh, it was important. It was a profound debate over the recent column on sorghum molasses, the methods of sopping, the best means of putting in the butter, the grammar of the sorghum makers and other important and fascinating details. Billy Sissom of Memphis, brings tears to my eyes by his tribute to ribbon cane syrup, though his intolerance toward sorghum is heart rending.

"In that article," writes Mr. Sissom, "you state that dictionaries define sorghum as a cereal grain used mainly for fodder. That is correct. At least, it is correct down south where I was reared."

"Down in that section of Mississippi no one who was anyone at all ate sorghum. But everyone did eat ribbon cane molasses, for ribbon cane makes molasses that is molasses."

"You brag about being a one-stroke sopper. I don't see how you can be successful for an old negro down home gave a good description of sorghum when he said 'it takes too many biscuits to hem them up'. It is too thin. But there is nothing better on a cold morning than good ribbon cane molasses, hot biscuits and plenty of good country butter. That's a breakfast fit for a king."

There is, of course, no use arguing with anyone who is wedded to his idols. There are things I could say about ribbon cane that would utterly crush Mr. Sissom's proud spirit but instead we leave him in charity and pass on to one whose heart beats in unison with a million sorghum molasses mills in our fair southland.

"Your discussion of sorghum molasses," writes J. A. Burt of Gunnison, Miss., "was a masterpiece and it shows you have been a profound student in your research work."

"Yet, I feel that I have gone into the matter a little deeper, having eaten sorghum molasses with butter and hot biscuits for 50 years. "From all these years of experience I have evolved the formula to get the best results. First, get your biscuits hot from the oven, butter six or eight at the time. Then put butter into the molasses and take a fork and beat the mixture until creamy. Separate the biscuits one at a time and place the buttered side down into the molasses. Quarter the biscuits, turn over and eat with a fork."

"Sopping, which you favor, is no doubt good but taste of an epicure that lingers long. I give this for the information of those prospering under Hoover's administration...."

That would leave most of us out, but fortunately sorghum making is still practiced amongst Democrats and will doubtless tide us over until the elections of 1932.

But from another point in Mississippi comes authoritative word on the subject.

"You are mixed on your grammar," writes W. R. McCormack, Corinth Miss., "on the singular and plural of molasses or sorghum."

"The word 'lasses' is singular. The plural of 'lasses' is 'mo-lasses'. Please get this right."

The point is well taken. At the same time the phrase I quoted is absolutely correct, to-wit: "Is them (or those) mo-lasses done yet?"

Many of us who eat molasses refer to it in the singular just as we do to measles, mumps, lice and cheese, but my point was that the person who is best fitted to make molasses always regards "them" as plural. I never would trust a man to make molasses who spoke of molasses as "it".

Wisdom on this important subject, however, is not confined to Mississippi.

pi. From the mountains of East Tennessee comes word that all hope of reforming the Republicans of that section is not wholly lost as they also appreciate sorghum molasses.

"I believe, upon diligent inquiry among East Tennesseans," writes R. P. Suite, Newport, Tenn., editor of the Newport Plain Talk, "that you will find that the proper way to eat sorghum is to mix the butter with the molasses. It is handier and makes the sopping much more convenient."

"Some folks, however, will tell you that sorghum is absolutely worthless without cornbread. That, of course, is simply a matter of taste. The cornbread eaters in these East Tennessee mountains years ago composed a little lyric in this connection which is well known by many of the older people. The rhyme goes like this:

"Nothing in this world
Far surpasses,
Good cornbread and
Sorghum molasses".

Editor Suite closed with a description of an old-time molasses making on a farm, a scene that would bring joy to the Young Confederates who want to turn back the tide of industrialism and get the south back on the farm.

From Nashville, however, comes the final word and authority on the subject of mixing the butter with the molasses. This reader gives it a name, which is "mess-up".

"I always enjoy reading your column which is often history to me but today you came down to my time and took me back to childhood in a little country town," writes Emmett Russell, Jr.

"Those molasses—they recall the time when my dad used to ask me to get in his lap after I had finished my supper and he would fix me something good—something like his dad used to fix for him."

"He put a hunk of butter on one side of the plate, after he had cleaned it off with a piece of biscuit and poured molasses over it. He worked the sorghum and butter all up together with his knife which gave 'them' a creamy color. While recounting his days as a boy working around the mill during sorghum time he fed 'them' to me on hot biscuits. Dad dignified this delicacy with the name of 'mess-up'. If you will come over to our house during sorghum time I'll get him to make you some 'mess-up' and Aunt Etta to keep us in old-time hot biscuits...."

Mr. Sissom wonders how I can be successful as a one-stroke sopper with sorghum. Ah, sir, one impugns my honor when he casts doubts on my technique. It is the work of art and skill to sop with the rapier-like rapidity of the expert one-stroke sopper. The two-stroke method is slow and slovenly, I am perfectly willing to use the one-stroke method while wearing a new $3 necktie. Not one drop, my dear sir, will fall on the new scarf!

If times were not so hard I'd challenge Mr. Sissom to a molasses duel. He may have choice or weapons as the challenged party, though I'd prefer to stick to sorghum molasses and permit him to the ribbon cane syrup. Using the one-stroke method and Mr. Sissom the two-stroke method, I'd guarantee to demolish more biscuits at two paces distance than Mr. Sissom with all his craftsmanship and molasses skill. The duel to be held on neutral ground in the dining room of the Hotel Andrew Johnson at Knoxville. But I refrain, Mr. Sissom and I together could not possibly pay for all those biscuits!—T. H. Alexander in Commercial Appeal.

VETS EMPLOY SECRETARY TO PRESENT WAR CLAIMS

Harold V. Snell, national liaison officer for the Disabled Veterans of the late World War, explains in the following article the purposes of the organization by that name, and urges co-operation with the recently established Kansas City office on the part of all claimants.

Editorial Note.

The Disabled American Veterans of the World War is a nationally recognized ex-service men's organization, the membership being limited to those who were wounded or disabled either by disease or injury during their World War service. It is the only organization of its kind in the world. The national headquarters of the organization are in Cincinnati, Ohio. In most of the States the State Department is maintained to place before the National Convention the mandates of the local chapters.

Our membership is limited to the above distinguished group and roughly speaking, there are only 250,000 eligibles in the country. Each member receives a semi-monthly newspaper published by our national headquarters that gives the latest information as to Veterans' Bureau regulations and Directors' decisions and helps the regional offices throughout the country by having this group of men instructed as to what they are entitled to and may expect by legislation from time to time.

There is maintained in the Washington office a rehabilitation chairman who has a double duty to perform, namely, legislation and liaison service. He is responsible to our organization for the amount of money recovered in the United States for the disabled veterans. He is ably assisted by trained liaison officers in every office of the U. S. Veterans Bureau. He takes the resolutions as mandated by the National Convention and has then presented to Congress in a business manner every year. Many of the amendments to the World War Veterans Act are now laws only because of the DAV Organization.

The Liaison service takes up a great field in matters pertaining to compensation, disability allowance, insurance, hospitalization, guardianships and burials. A man does not necessarily have to hold a card in our organization to be entitled to the benefits that he may derive from the Liaison Officer of his district. Any matters that might come under the jurisdiction of the Kansas City Regional Office will gladly be answered if the Veteran will write, giving their claim number, to Harold V. Snell, 600 Medical Arts Building Kansas City, Mo.

LOVE, PLUMAGE, VANITY BRING TRAGIC DEATH

Neither is 'that little thing called love' any large contributor to the peace and quiet of game conservationists.

But don't jump to conclusions. The trials and tribulations in this case are caused by the wild creatures themselves.

Certain species of wild life suffer from their own susceptibility to acute attacks of romance or from the fine raiment and other discreet vanities they affect in courting, according to officials of the American Game Protective Association.

Instead of love laughing at locksmiths, said the officials, in the out-of-doors it sometimes laughs at actual extermination.

A good example is the wood duck, they said. This most gaudily decked waterfowl, native American swain—so busy proving that home-grown sons can occasionally compete with those visiting princes—is either vain and foolhardy or inattentive to such outside details as a hunter's gun.

Added to the decrease of waterside woods, his habit of tempting poachers' bullets carried him near extinction. Under State and Federal protection, he is only now on the increase, the officials said, and appears to be plentiful this year in Michigan. Those notorious lovers, the doves, said the game men, spend so much time lovey-dovey they have little time for home-building. Their settings of one or two eggs are often lost through openings in hastily-rigged nests.

Which reminded officials of the most famous of bird love-tragedies. A comparatively few years ago the passenger pigeon was a wonder of the world because of its number. Its flights about America appalled the citizens, blotting out the sky for hours at a time and breaking down trees with their weight when they paused.

But with this beautiful bird life

was an eternal dream of blissful mating, officials related. In nesting grounds covering many miles each welcomed a new heir every month except during the dead of winter. While nesting they were easy prey to thousands of men who carted them and their squabs away by the hundreds of wagon loads. Now not a single passenger pigeon is known to exist the game officials declared.

Likewise the snowy egret tottered on the brink of extermination because of its love-plumes, which bloomed only in mating season and were in great demand for milady's hats, the officials pointed out. With this demand continuing abroad, game protectors for years have waged actual battle against poachers in the lonely marshlands of the gulf coast. Now the egret, of beauty's highest royalty, is steadily blooming, courting and multiplying, reports to the game association show.

HOW IT HAPPENED

According to figures recently compiled by the Missouri State Highway Commission, there were 727 auto accidents reported to the highway department during August, 1930. The nature of these accidents were reported as follows:

Collision of car with pedestrian... 72
Collision of car with children... 37
Collision of car with live stock... 6
Collision with auto, bus or truck... 285
Collision of motorcycle, bicycle,

child wagon... 12
Collision with parked car... 17
Collision with grader, mixer or tractor... 1
Collision with horse-drawn vehicle... 10
Collision with street cars... 11
Collision with train... 9
Collision with fixed objects... 57

Car in ditch... 47
Car over embankment... 17
Car through bridge... 5
Car burned... 3
Injured by own car... 4
Passenger fell from or thrown from car... 17
Not stated... 15

Of the 727 accidents reported to the department only 293 occurred on the State Highway while 434 were on the streets of towns and cities in the State.

Soft jelly can be used up in many appetizing ways. Spread it on pancakes; on jelly roll; put it in pastry shells with a bit of whipped cream on top; fill apples that have been cooked tender in sirup with some of it; put a bit on such milk desserts as blanc mange, custard, Spanish cream or bread pudding.

Spraying during the dormant period of the trees is the best remedy for the San Jose scale, one of the serious orchard pests of the country. Lime-sulphur sprays, petroleum sprays, and soap washes are effective against this pest. Spray the trees in late fall after the foliage is off, in the winter, or in spring before the foliage appears. It is usually desirable to prune infested trees severely, to simplify the work of spraying and to promote new growth of non-infested wood.

THE United States has made great forward strides in the last 40 years in national wealth, in population, in industrial development and in business generally, including imports and exports. Railway investment, earnings, expenses and traffic also have grown rapidly in that period, but railway taxes have grown faster than any of the other factors. The tax bill of the American railroads in 1890 was $31,000,000. In 1929 it was $336,682,634, an increase of 1180 per cent.

This means that nearly one-fourth of the net operating revenues of the American railroads was paid to various federal, state and local governments. In other words it means that nearly one-fourth of the total effort of railroads now is devoted to producing net operating revenue sufficient to pay the taxes on railway property as a whole.

Every industry has felt the increasing burden of taxation and every industry is devoting attention to its own tax troubles. The public as a whole recognizes the grave problem that has resulted from the fact that taxes are rising steadily and growing progressively more burdensome, but something must be done about it.

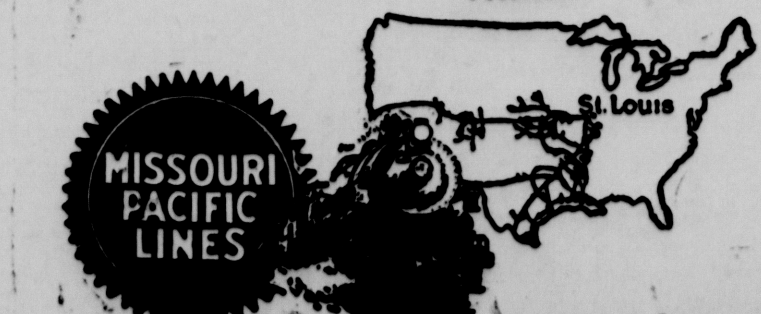

In considering the tax problems of this country, however, it should be remembered that while railroad tax, period 1890 to 1929, increased 1180 per cent, taxes other than those paid by the railroads increased only 952 per cent. The railway tax growth was one-fourth greater than that of the tax bill of other industries and individuals combined.

At the end of 1929 railway taxes had mounted to a larger annual total than ever before. Railway taxes were greater last year than in any corresponding period in history and they absorbed 6.32 cents of each gross dollar received by the railroads.

The rise in railway taxes in the last 40 years therefore is 13 times the growth in population and three times the gain in national wealth in this country and this is a problem which demands and deserves the most careful consideration of every citizen.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM CHARLESTON

Mrs. E. H. Oresar spent the week-end in Lilbourn.

Mrs. John Bonduant was a visitor in Farmington Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tippet were visitors in Cairo Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Solomon of Cairo were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Wigdor, Sunday.

Miss Geneva Book of Dexter was the week-end guest of her sister, Miss Pansy Book.

Joe Jackson and sisters, Misses Lela and Lena, were visitors in Cape Girardeau, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Baker of Morehouse spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lutz.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Showmaker of St. Louis were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Swank.

Mr. and Mrs. Hula Solmon and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lynn were visitors in Clinton, Ky., Sunday.

Mrs. Louie Waltemate of Doniphan was the week-end guest of Mrs. Lola Lovelace and Mrs. J. R. Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carroll were visitors in Cape Girardeau, Sunday.

Rozert Lee Oliver and mother attended the Navy Band concert in Cape Girardeau, Sunday afternoon.

Rev. J. S. Compere left Sunday for Kansas City to attend an Executive Board meeting of the Baptist Church of Missouri.

Mrs. Mary Hart and little daughter, Betty, left Saturday evening for East St. Louis, where they will make their home.

Mrs. James Sheppard was hostess to her Sewing Club last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chevre. The time was spent dressing dolls and making flowers. The ten members present were served a lovely lunch.

Mrs. J. B. Simpson was hostess to the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist church last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Sam Cavitt presided over the business session in which work for the coming winter was planned. Mrs. Simpson served a plate lunch.

Last Thursday evening Rev. J. S. Compere, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the following men of his official board, O. W. Wise, E. D. Jones and D. D. Hill were in Cape Girardeau to assist in the ordination of Rev. Moore, which was held at the Red Star Baptist church. Rev. Compere preached the ordination sermon.

Chaperoned by their sponsor, Miss Mary Lee Simpson, the Senior Class Friday evening enjoyed a hay ride. They drove to Benton, where they stopped to partake of a delicious lunch. They then went to Cape Girardeau and visited with the Charleston girls in college there. College yells and songs were rendered along the way.

Some twenty-five guests dressed in costume were entertained at a Halloween party Friday evening given by Miss Nellie Scott. Dressed as a ghost, the hostess received the guests who were conducted to the attic which was decorated appropriately for Halloween. Games, dancing and fortune telling were the features of entertainment. Lovely refreshments were served by the gracious young hostess.

Officers Clarence Lane, J. W. Arnold and Trump Corbitt captured Othel Braggett, age 19 years, of Mound City, Ill., John Hatfield, 19, and Corliss Hollowell, 22, both of Cairo, Monday afternoon in a thicket on the Missouri shore, one mile above the old Greenfield Landing, opposite 28th Street Cairo, as they were busy cooking 60 gallons of mash. The officers secured one quart of whiskey and five barrels each of 60 gallon capacity, of mash. The men were brought here and placed in jail and are awaiting to make bond.

SIX FINED FOR HUNTING DUCKS ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Four trespassers on the hunting grounds of the Wilkie Land Co., near Wilkie Station on the Burlington Railroad in St. Charles County, were fined Sunday by Justice of the Peace Max Frey of St. Charles. Arrested by a Federal game warden, they were charged under a State game law prohibiting trespassing on private property for the purpose of hunting. The trespassers from St. Louis were fined $10 and costs, each amounting to $21.50, but $9 of each fine was stayed because they had not killed any ducks.

A week ago two St. Louisians were fined $10 and costs each for trespassing on the same property, the maximum fine being collected because they were in possession of game.

"PROSPERITY EDITORIAL" RECEIVES NATION-WIDE PUBLICITY SAY H. A. HILL

Mr. Charles Blanton, Sr., Skeston, Missouri
Dear Mr. Blanton:

I am very pleased to inform you that your editorial, copies of which we sent to our 2300 clubs and a thousand chambers of commerce throughout the country, has been printed in newspapers all over the United States and Canada. Quite a number of them have quoted absolutely word for word our release, giving The Standard credit for bringing forth this idea. It is very pleasing to me to see the results in the communities whose papers published these articles.

I wish to express to you the appreciation of this entire Association for your kind co-operation, and I believe that it has benefited thousands of people throughout the entire country.

Very truly yours,
H. A. HILL,
Assistant Secretary

France, England, and the United States have taken definite steps to beautify main arteries of travel. In the United States, the federal government is now authorized to bear one-half the expense, with the several States for planting shade trees along the highways of its vast interstate system.

Crop rotation, clean fall plowing and a clean-up of cornstalks will control barley scab, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probably the best means of disposing of badly scabbed barley is to feed it to cattle or sheep. It is not satisfactory for hog feed. No scab-resistant varieties of barley have been found or developed.

Many States are making war on roadside advertising. According to an article recently published in the Michigan Road Journal, The Pennsylvania Department of Highway recently destroyed 32,225 roadside signs embodying every type of blarney, daub, scrawl, and tattered legend that came within the definition of illegal advertising.

An archaeological expedition digging in the Euphrates Valley kept unearthing city built on city, at a certain spot. Reaching the fourth layer denoting a civilization built upon an older one, the explorers found themselves standing among the ruins of Calush, mentioned in Genesis, and full 7000 years old. And among these ruins was a clay pot containing broken fragments of pottery, and upon it an inscription by the priest who had collected them, telling that they were the remains of some ancient and forgotten folk, found while he, this 7,000-year-old priest, was digging the foundation of the temple.

Proteins from animal sources are generally better for poultry feeding than those of vegetable origin, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Meat scrap, fish meal, and tankage are good sources of animal protein and supply valuable minerals in addition. Another advantage of animal proteins, especially milk and meat scrap, is that they are highly digestible. Protein in a good grade of fish meal is probably equal to the same amount of protein in meat scrap. Tankage is not so good as the other proteins for poultry and needs to be supplemented with minerals. One of the best sources of animal protein is milk, which has a relatively greater feeding value than its actual protein content. It helps to prevent mortality of baby chicks, to increase the rate of gain of growing chicks, and to increase the feed consumption and egg production of laying stock.

A Standardized Service

Here we do not have one price for the wealthy and another price for the patron of moderate means. Nor does the price paid regulate the character of service and equipment offered. All funerals under our direction receive the same elegance of appointments and attention—the same magnificent hearses and limousines; preparation, direction, prompt ambulance service, and skilled attendants. UNPLUNDERED TOMB IN MESOPOTAMIA

Philadelphia, November 3.—An ancient tomb containing a terra cotta sarcophagus, pottery and beautiful bronzes, has been discovered at Tell Billa in Northern Mesopotamia by a University of Pennsylvania Museum archaeological expedition under the direction of Dr. Ephraim A. Speiser. The tomb is thought by Dr. Speiser to belong to the rule of the Persian Archæmnd dynasty, about 540-330 B. C., brought to an end by the conquests of Alexander the Great.

"Ancient tombs which have not long been plundered of their contents are seldom found by archaeologists, and the uncovering of such a tomb at Tell Billa encourages the belief that continued excavations there will disclose other important relics of archaeological significance," Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the museum, said in announcing the discovery.

"Tell Billa, one of the largest and most imposing mounds in ancient Assyria, is 15 miles northeast of Mosul and about five miles east of the famous ruins of Khorsbad. It first attracted the attention of Dr. Speiser four years ago when he was making an archaeological survey of Northern Iraq.

"Further interest attaches to the site because Tell Billa was one of the places through which the famous 'Ten Thousand' passed on their retreat after the battle of Cunaxa in 401 B. C., when Cyrus with 10,000 Greek mercenaries was killed in an attempt to wrest the Persian throne from his brother, Artaxerxes II.

"During the entire period from about 4000 B. C. until the end of the Assyrian Empire in 606 B. C., the site of Tell Billa was occupied constantly, which adds to the likelihood that excavation there will yield sculpture from the golden age of Assyrian art as well as pre-historic remains of the aboriginal population of the land."

More Wagons For Corn Harvest

Many farmers could increase their efficiency during the late fall and early winter with an extra wagon on the farm. One Corn Belt farmer found that he could secure greater capacity from his corn picker by using five wagons. Two loaded wagons were hauled at one time with a team from the field to the crib where a gasoline engine powered elevator made it easy for one man to unload and crib the corn. With the extra wagons, there was no valuable time lost in holding up the tractor and corn picker and as a result the corn was out before bad weather would have made it more difficult to operate.

An extra wagon comes in handy for holding snapped corn for feeding in lots and also for the convenient handling of fodder when chopping or grinding.

No. 4232

Order of Publication
Now on this 11th day of October, A. D. 1930, in vacation of the Circuit Court of Scott County, Missouri, comes the plaintiff herein by his attorneys, Oliver & Oliver, before the undersigned Clerk of said Court, and files his petition containing two counts and Affidavit for Attachment, alleging, among other things, that the defendant, Ula B. Shanks, is a non-resident of the State of Missouri and that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her in this State.

WHEREUPON, It is ordered by the undersigned Clerk of the Circuit Court of Scott County, Missouri, in vacation, that publication be made notifying said defendant, Ula B. Shanks, that the plaintiff herein has commenced an action against her in this Court, on two counts, the object and general nature of which is to enforce the payment of the balance due on two promissory notes executed by the defendants to the Liberty Joint Stock Land Bank, which said balance due amounts to the sum of Two Thousand, Two Hundred Eighty-Four & 08-100 ($2,284.06) Dollars, together with interest, attorney's fee and costs, and to further notify said defendant, Ula B. Shanks, that her property has been attached.

And unless said defendant, Ula B. Shanks, be and appear at the March Term, A. D. 1931, of the Circuit Court of Scott County, Missouri, to be begun and held in the Court House in the Town of Benton, County of Scott, and State of Missouri, on the Second Monday in March, A. D. 1931, and then and there, on or before the first day of said term before the Judge of said Court, answer or plead to plaintiff's petition in this cause, the said petition will be taken as confessed and judgment rendered against her and her attached property sold to satisfy the judgment, interest, attorney's fee and costs.

It is further ordered that a copy hereof be published in The Sikeston Standard, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in Scott County, Missouri, to be published once a week for four successive weeks, the last insertion to be at least fifteen days before the first day of the said March Term, A. D. 1931, of said Court.

SHADOWS Of The Past That Return For A Day

GONE from the papers are headlines telling anxious civilians of the tide of battle. Died away are the echoes of our cheers as America's Finest marched forth to war . . . Today our thoughts turn to business conditions and football scores. The very sirens and whistles that hailed golden Victory twelve years ago summon workers to task or leisure . . . But this is an Anniversary. Just today let us reflect in gratitude on the Boys who Have Done Their Bit.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM NEW MADRID

Burl Underwood of Parma looked after business matters here Wednesday.

Miss Clara Drinkwater spent the week-end with her parents in Charleston.

Lloyd Raidt of St. Louis, former resident of New Madrid, spent the week here visiting friends.

Mrs. Jennie Mitchell is spending the week in Memphis, Tenn., with her son, C. A. Mitchell and family.

Mrs. Dan McCoy, Jr., of Sikeston spent Tuesday and Wednesday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bock and family.

Attorney E. F. Sharp and W. S. Edwards motored to Ste. Genevieve Thursday, where they attended to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Allison and the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Winston, of Poplar Bluff, spent Sunday here with relatives.

Misses Hazel Wolwick and Mildred Kerr attended the Missouri State Christian Endeavor Convention at Cape Girardeau, Thursday.

Lee Willett, a former resident of this city, en route to New Orleans, La., spent a few hours here Wednesday with relatives and friends.

Mrs. W. V. Appuhn returned to her home in Quincy, Ill., this week, after a month's visit here with her mother, Mrs. Birdie Ransburgh and family.

Mrs. J. K. Robbins and daughter, Mrs. C. W. Lewis of St. Louis spent the week with her husband, J. K. Robbins, near Marston, and other relatives.

Attorney George H. Traylor motored to Cairo Friday to visit his wife and daughter, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Jr. The latter is convalescing from an operation at St. Mary's Infirmary.

Misses Lucille Sloas and Alice Crisler were Sikeston visitors Wednesday evening, where they attended Malone Theatre, and also visited the latter's sister, Miss Florence Crisler.

A dance, featuring Ish Blank's orchestra, will be held here in Hunter's Hall, Wednesday evening. This orchestra has played here before and was well liked, and a large crowd is expected.

Misses Mary Waters and Laura Digges spent the week in St. Louis, visiting friends and shopping. On their return, Miss Waters will stop at Farmington, where she will remain for a visit with her sister.

Dr. M. C. Mill mailed the first Christmas package of the year at the postoffice here this week, when he mailed a box to Miss Elenor Clinton, Bubbulpore, India, which will take from 40 to 48 days to reach its destination.

Mrs. F. M. Robbins and son, Monroe, returned to Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday, after spending the early part of the week here. They were accompanied by Mrs. Louis Shainberg, who spent the night relatives, and returned home Thursday.

Little Miss Kathryn Baynes and thirteen of her friends enjoyed a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Baynes, after school, Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being her sixth birthday anniversary. The honoree received many pretty gifts from her guests.

The New Madrid Owls lost their second game out of six played during the season, when they were defeated by Kennett, on that field, by a score of 21 to 0, Friday afternoon. They will again play Portageville next Friday afternoon, having defeated them once this season. Portageville's team has improved and expect to show the New Madrid pig skin chasers some opposition this time.

Word was received by friends here that Mrs. A. B. Fairfield, of Blytheville, Ark., was found dead in bed Friday morning. She had been ill for several days, but her condition was not thought to be serious. Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield were former residents of New Madrid, having operated the Commercial Hotel here about 17 years ago. Burial was made at Blytheville Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Lizzie Park was the gracious hostess to the Methodist Missionary Society at her home on Main Street, Thursday afternoon. Rev. M. H. Markley conducted the devotional part of the meeting. Plans were made to carry out some home mission work, and Miss Parson, representative of the Missouri Orphans' Home in St. Louis, was present and gave an interesting account of the work being done in the home. After all business was attended to, the hostess served a delicious luncheon.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MORLEY

Little Jackie Finney is on the sick list.

Clarence Beardslee was a business visitor at Rector, Ark., Friday.

Mrs. Mary Thompson spent the week with her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Leslie.

Rev. McCoyne, pastor of the pentecostal church, left last week for Illinois to make his home.

Mesdames C. D. Cummins and Harris Foster were Cape Girardeau business visitors Thursday.
